4 admit bugging

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four more of the Watergate political espionage defendants pleaded guilty today, leaving only two of the original seven defendants at trial.

The guilty plea was entered by a new court appointed attorney of Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio R. Martinez, Frank A. Surgis, Virgilio R. Gonzalez, all from the Miami area.

The plea brought to five the total number of defendants who have withdrawn from the trial since it opened a week ago. Last Wednesday, former White House consultant E. Howard Hunt pleaded guilty to all charges.

The exit of four more defendants, leaving only two at the once crowded defense table, raised serious questions as to whether the trial could continue.

Gerald Alch, attorney for one of the remaining defendants, James W. McCord Jr., said before court opens that he would seek a mistrial if the guilty pleas were offered, claiming the jury would conclude, even though it wouldn't be told, that the others had admitted guilt. The other remaining defendant is G. Gordon Liddy.

The new guilty pleas were offered by court-appointed attorney Al Newmeyer, in lieu of New York Lawyer Henry B. Rothblatt, who had represented the four through the first week of trial but had refused to have them plead guilty.

Like Hunt, the four were required to plead guilty to all of the counts against them.

All four, were charged with seven counts of an eight count indictment and face maximum possible prison sentences of 55 years each. All four have CIA backgrounds dating from the Cuban Bay of Pigs invasion.

Sources close to the defense had said earlier that the Miami four had been under intense pressure to plead guilty and avoid a full airing of the charges against them, stemming from the burglary of Democratic party headquarters here last summer. The withdrawal of five of the seven defendants makes it unlikely that the full evidence in the case will be made public, at least in this trial.

Clean air appeal in high court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to review a lower court order forbidding pollution of clean air.

The high court in a brief order without dissent agreed to hear the government's appeal of a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court here requiring federal enforcement of a policy of "nondegradation" of clean air.

In other action today, the Court agreed to consider a New York law that requires people who receive federal welfare aid to register with the state for work; to rule on the proposed consolidation of the mostly black schools at Richmond, Va., with two adjoining white suburban systems, and to consider the plea of 72-year-old philosophy Prof. Paul Weiss that Fordham University had discriminated against him solely on the basis of age.

The Environmental Protection Agency was poised in November to reluctantly issue regulations to comply with the decision when the high court blocked its effect pending appeal.

Environmentalists set out to protect those areas with air cleaner than that required by federal standards, but the government claimed the effect will be to hamper economic development and make the task of lessening pollution elsewhere more difficult.

Under the Clean Air Amendments of 1970, EPA has established air quality standards setting limits on the permissible levels of pollutants.

One set of standards, designed to protect human health, must be achieved by 1975. No time limit has been set on a second, more stringent set of standards to protect animals, plants, property and the environment.

"States should have the option of expanding economic development into under developed areas, so long as federal primary and secondary standards are not exceeded," the government argued.

Four environment groups sued Ruckelshaus last May, contending the law's stated purpose to "protect and enhance" air quality means air quality must not be degraded.

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon ordered a halt Monday to all offensive military operations in North Vietnam "because of the progress made" in Paris peace talks, the Florida White House said.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon's order took effect at 10 a.m. EST and includes "bombing, shelling and any further mining of North Vietnam."

The White House spokesman described the move as "a unilateral gesture" that followed an exhaustive presidential assessment of the negotiations.

Ziegler refused to discuss reports that Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's peace negotiator, and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho have, for all practical purposes, already reached an accord.

He did say in response to a question: "Dr. Kissinger will be returning to Paris at some point in the relatively near future."

Asked if North Vietnam had agreed to scale down its military operations in South Vietnam in return for Nixon's military concession, Ziegler said the White House had no information to indicate any change in Hanoi's military strategy.

"This action was not an element of the negotiations," he said.

Ziegler did say Hanoi was aware that progress in the Paris talks could lead to a U.S. move of the type he announced.

Nixon and Kissinger conferred for an hour and a half Monday morning at the President's bedside office here. It was their fourth meeting in two days since Kissinger flew here from Paris early Sunday morning.

Ziegler said Nixon transmitted the order to halt military operations in North Vietnam late Sunday night following one of his discussions with Kissinger.

Asked if any move would be made to deactivate mines already placed along the North Vietnamese coast, he said those weapons "will remain in place" and be discussed in future Paris talks.

Asked if Nixon was hopeful that a peace agreement could be announced by Inauguration Day—Saturday—Ziegler replied, "we have no artificial timetable." He said the objective all along has been to end the war at the earliest possible date.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was fully informed in advance about Nixon's decision, Ziegler added.

The President has dispatched Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., to Saigon to consult with Thieu about the Paris talks. Haig had a lengthy talk with Nixon and Kissinger prior to his departure.

Haig flew off to Saigon at Nixon's behest Sunday night following Kissinger's return from six days of peace negotiations in Paris that the President's foreign policy aide described as "very extensive and very useful."

Ziegler said Haig would "discuss the current status of negotiations with President Thieu" and with leaders of Thailand, Laos and Cambodia.

Haig made the same circuit just before Christmas, after the Paris talks were temporarily broken off and the United States launched the heaviest bombing raids of the war against Hanoi and Haiphong. The raids in that section of North Vietnam have been suspended while a renewed search for peace continued.

Ziegler said he could not say when Kissinger might return to Paris to resume apparently crucial talks with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho. The presidential spokesman declined to say anything substantive about the negotiations.

There was no word on when Nixon, who flew here Friday, would return to Washington.

Cease-fire possible this week, CBS says

NEW YORK (AP) — A CBS television reporter said today that "highly reliable palace sources in Saigon" expect all parties concerned in the Vietnam war to sign an agreement on a cease-fire "as early as this week."

Richard Wagner, the network's Saigon correspondent, also said the sources told him that South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu will accept the agreement "after making a few superficial changes to suggest that he took an active part in the drafting of the accords."

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., President Nixon's representative now en route to Saigon, was said to be carrying an updated version of a draft agreement that Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, presented to Thieu on Saturday.

The draft agreement, Wagner said, contains two significant concessions from Hanoi — "tacit recognition" of the Saigon government and acceptance of a "temporary military and political demarcation line in Vietnam at the 17th Parallel."

Wagner said the word "temporary" was described by his sources as a face-saving measure for the North Vietnamese.

In addition, Wagner said in a report on the "CBS Morning News with John Hart," the sources told him that Hanoi has agreed to allow several thousand persons on the International Control Commission to supervise the cease-fire, rather than the few hundred it had previously insisted upon.

2 Oshkosh girls killed in snowmobile pileup

OMRO — Two Oshkosh girls, ages 7 and 12, died instantly Sunday of multiple skull fractures when the snowmobile they were riding slammed into a highway bridge near here, while traveling at an estimated speed of 50 m.p.h.

The victims were Cheryl Rogge, 7, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Rogge, 1372 Valley Road, and her cousin Elizabeth A. Mauritz, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mauritz, 934 Armory Place. They were the first snowmobile fatalities ever recorded in Winnebago County.

The accident occurred about 3:30 p.m. at the Springbrook Tavern, just east of Omro, when the youngsters left for a short ride after attending a snowmobile rally with their parents.

Winnebago Sheriff's authorities said the 7-year-old was driving, while her cousin who had been operating snowmobiles about four years, was giving her a lesson how to run the machine.

Witnesses said they were traveling south on Spring Brook at about 5 m.p.h. and were slowing down to stop before the bridge. The machine suddenly gained speed as the Rogge girl apparently mistook the throttle for the brake and panicked. The snowmobile hit the highway bridge, with a 30 inch clearance, head-on. The Rogge girl was thrown from the machine as it hit the bridge, and the Mauritz girl was thrown after it passed under it. Both victims were wearing helmets.

Elizabeth had recently completed a course on snowmobile safety, sponsored by the state Department of Natural Resources, authorities said.

Both of their fathers are snowmobile dealers and reportedly were very strict with their children about snowmobile safety precautions.

The bodies were taken to the Seefeld Funeral Home in Oshkosh where funeral arrangements are pending.

Their deaths, and the death of a Horicon man and rural Brussels youngster this weekend, raised to 18 the number of snowmobiling victims in the state this season.

Don Gilmore, 21, died Saturday night after he was thrown from his machine when it hit a snowbank on a town road about 16 miles northwest of Merrill.

Debra Engelbert, 13, was killed Sunday when the snowmobile she was on collided with a truck in Door County on State 57, south of Brussels.

New procedure could double gas prices

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Natural gas bills, which have already ballooned by a third or more during the past five years, are destined to swell even faster if producers take advantage of a new pricing procedure created by federal regulators.

As a measure of what the future could hold for consumers, three producers in the vital offshore Louisiana field have asked for an immediate 73-percent price increase and want further annual increases which would drive their prices to twice present levels within seven years.

Behind the new pricing procedure is a nationwide gas shortage. For the first time last year, the demand for natural gas exceeded the supply. Producers and the Federal Power Commission contend higher prices are necessary to lure untapped sources of gas onto the market.

The results for the price increases are the first major ones under the new FPC procedure called optional pricing.

These requests are crucial because the offshore Louisiana fields now account for a third of the nation's natural gas supply and the producers applying to the FPC for higher rates have promised other hikes will follow if the increases are granted.

Tenneco Oil, one of the applicants, said approval will indicate to the gas-producing industry that the FPC will allow new gas sales at rates "based on economic factors including the cost of alternatives."

The other applicants are Texaco and Belco Petroleum Co.

Opponents challenging optional pricing in the courts charge it is certain to produce windfall profits for producers. Such opponents as the American Public Gas Association have accused the FPC of failing to investigate whether the present gas shortage is an industry creation aimed at eliciting higher prices.

These assertions are denied by producers and the FPC.

Besides the gas association, a combine of municipal gas companies, the opponents include Consumers Union and 21 so-called Concerned Congressmen, headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif.

They call optional pricing an end run around the 1938 Natural Gas act, which originally was used to regulate only the prices charged by interstate gas pipelines. The FPC resisted regulating prices charged by producers at the wellhead until the Supreme Court ruled in 1954 that producers too, must be regulated.

The Louisiana applications seek modification of the standard which has been applied since then in setting prices.

Traditionally, the FPC has used the cost-plus formula used by other regulatory rate setters. The commission computes how much it costs to produce the gas and adds what it considers a reasonable profit return of about 15 percent.

COPENHAGEN (AP) — One year after taking the throne, Denmark's Queen Margrethe is a monarch tied to the tradition set by her father and faced with prospects of change.

Because the old sailor king loved the royal yacht, Margrethe spent much of the summer cruising and visiting the provinces with her 38-year-old French-born husband, Prince Henrik, and their two children, Crown Prince Frederik, 3, and Prince Joachim, 2.

Such tradition may have pleased the Danes, but there also was some disappointment that Margrethe did not broaden contacts between the palace and the people at a time when monarchy again is being debated.

Some newsmen found the court less open than in King Frederik's 25-year-reign. A veteran reporter of a weekly magazine said he has "all but given up direct contact with the court."

At a news conference last November, the first ever held by a reigning Danish monarch, Margrethe indicated she did not intend to make such conferences a fixture of her reign.

Margrethe's charm and quick wits overcame the rigid formality of the event. Joking, laughing and juggling the languages of Danish, Swedish and English, she displayed intelligence, sincerity and dedication.

The constitution gives no political powers to a monarch, but government sources said Margrethe makes certain she knows what is in any major legislation before she goes through the formality of signing it.

Try a little exercise instead of protein pills

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband and I were interested in taking a protein supplement because we felt maybe our diet was lacking in it. So we went to a health food store and the man sold us a large bottle (for $2.19) of protein from soy beans. He told us to take "around 30 a day — to do any good." That seems like a lot to us.

My husband is 27 and I am 30. We take a multiple vitamin with iron every day but that is all in the way of pills. While neither of us feels ill, we do feel like we could and should have more energy.

As an example, for dinner last night we had halibut, corn, mashed potatoes and milk. Both of us are trim, we get plenty of sleep, but do not get enough exercise. Could this be the key, and not lack of protein? I thought our diet was fine until I read in a magazine that if your diet is lacking in protein it can be like a "hidden disease" — you never feel sick but never really good. — Mrs. S.R.K.

Taking your example meal, you are getting plenty of protein. Two servings of protein a day (meat, fish, cheese, eggs) won't starve you for protein, and if at breakfast you have some bacon or an egg, that's some extra protein. Cereals and milk add a bit more.

The idea that a normal person needs pills or food supplements to be healthy is a fad. I can't see any evidence that the pill poppers and health food devotees are healthier than anyone else.

It's true that soy beans are very rich in protein as vegetables go — since few vegetables have large amounts of protein, although nuts have a good deal.

So I have grave doubts that popping 30 pills a day is going to do anything for you, and the amount of protein would not be large. The $2.19 spent on poultry, eggs, fish or cheese — or on meat, unless you insist on the expensive cuts — would give you more protein per dollar.

It's true that a diet really deficient in protein can make you sluggish and not up to par, but a genuinely protein deficient diet is not likely in an average household. In a very poor one, perhaps between the "dollar princess" and the count was a top society event in the late twenties yes, with people filling up on spaghetti, macaroni or such starchy dishes, and not adding protein in the form of meat sauce, meat balls, cheese sauce, etc.

And among elderly folks, some get in the habit of eating soft, "easy" foods, and only enough to satisfy appetite because they can't chew meat or don't want to take the trouble of fixing any of the multiple good forms of protein. I'll repeat the main ones again: Lean meat, fish, eggs, cheese, poultry, plus some in cereals, milk, nuts, and in a few vegetables of the pea and bean family.

At your age, lack of exercise can leave you feeling a bit droopy, and the upper 20s and early 30s is a good time to get back into the habit of some brisk exercise. Bowling, biking, hiking, swimming, chopping wood, calisthenics, just about any kind of exercise is good for you and makes you feel alive.

Try the exercise instead of the pills for a few weeks.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is wrong with using hot tap water instead of cold for cooking or boiling? It is quicker for me to boil a kettle of water for instant coffee, but I have been told that this is unhealthy. — F.C.

I don't know anything unhealthy about it. What difference whether the water is heated in the hot water heater or in the kettle? It's an old notion which so far as I can determine has no basis in fact.

Note to Mrs. N.S.: The fact that your late husband had cancer does not mean that you will get it. Cancer, unlike communicable diseases, is not passed from one person to another.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Today in history

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Jan. 15, the 15th day of 1973. There are 350 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1922, the Irish Free State was established.

On this date:

In 1535, King Henry VIII assumed the title, "supreme head of the church" in England.

In 1919, Ignace Jan Paderewski became the first premier of the newly created Republic of Poland.

In 1929, the United States ratified the Kellogg-Briand peace pact.

Also, in 1929, the American civil rights leader, Martin Luther King Jr., was born in Atlanta, Ga.

In 1932, France completed pacification of French Morocco.

In 1971, the Aswan High Dam in Egypt was dedicated by President Anwar Sadat and Soviet Chief of State N. V. Podgorny.

Ten years ago: In the Congo, President Moise Tshombe of Katanga said he was willing to end the province's secession and allow full freedom of movement for U.N. forces.

Today's birthdays: Pianist Malcolm Frager is 38. Former child movie star Margaret O'Brien is 36.

Thought for today: Ireland is a country in which the probable never happens and the impossible always does — John P. Mahaffey, Irish scholar, 1839-1919.

Deceptive play wins vital trick for game

You can't cheat an honest man, veteran con men agree; but the statement is almost meaningless because practically everybody has a touch of larceny in his makeup. This is deep philosophy, of course, but nothing is too deep for regular readers of this column.

If South tackles either suit in a straightforward manner, the opponents will take the ace of that suit and lead a second spade. When South gets around to the second minor suit, the enemy will be ready to take that ace and the rest of the spades South will therefore be defeated.

The best chance to make the contract is to "steal" one trick in clubs or diamonds. South did just this by leading the jack of diamonds at the second trick, appealing to West's larceny.

West nonchalantly played low, hoping that South planned a finesse and that East would win with the queen of diamonds. This was exactly the impression South had hoped to create.

When the jack of diamonds held, declarer switched to clubs in order to get three club tricks. He made game with three clubs, the stolen diamond, three hearts and two spades.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold: S-J 9 7 6 3, H-7 6 3, D-A 6 5, C-9 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade or pass. Most experts would make one response with this hand; some would refuse to respond. Bid with a conservative partner since he is not likely to get you in trouble. Pass with a jumpy partner while you are still at a low contract.

Heart Watch vs. cardiovascular ills

BY DIRK VAN SUSTEREN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An effort at combating the sources of cardiovascular diseases — including heart attacks and strokes — is beginning in Outagamie County through a new, unique program known as Heart Watch.

The plans for what basically will be a community education program were unveiled last week at a meeting of approximately 20 medical, hospital and other professional personnel from throughout the county. They will constitute the Heart Watch Board.

The purpose of the program, according to one of its originators, Dr. Jack Anderson, an Appleton internist, will be to alert the public to the causes of atherosclerosis, a disease involving the blockage of blood vessels — the major cause of strokes and heart attacks. There also will be special emphasis on warning the public of the dangers and problems of high blood pressure.

Heart Watch, which will be a countywide effort, will represent and be financially supported by the Wisconsin Heart Association. It already has been endorsed by the Outagamie County Medical Society.

Its implementation will be tied in with the local heart fund drive scheduled to begin in February.

Initially, a headquarters for Heart Watch will be established in space provided at St. Elizabeth Hospital. More permanent quarters eventually may be established elsewhere, the board was told. Citizen volunteers and others in the medical and health fields will coordinate the education efforts through that office.

"It is a known fact that illnesses of the cardiovascular system, primarily atherosclerosis, account for about 54 per cent of all the deaths in the U.S.," Anderson said. "It is our No. 1 killer, having an incidence about three times greater than that of cancer. Thousands of persons also develop serious disabilities secondary to atherosclerosis."

Other figures indicate that approximately one million persons die each year in the United States from cardiovascular diseases, giving this country the second highest rate in the world. These diseases increasingly strike persons prematurely, during their younger, more productive years.

It is primarily at these persons that Heart Watch will aim, telling them there is something they can do now to prevent a heart attack in the future.

Basically, Heart Watch is expected to focus on eight risk factors that appear to be causes of cardiovascular diseases. The factors include obesity, diabetes, heredity, high cholesterol, lack of exercise, cigarette smoking, prolonged tension and high blood pressure. The program will attempt to use the media and other educational methods to alert persons of these risks. It may eventually provide screening programs in the community to help determine potential heart attack and stroke victims.

"A community effort of this nature is in line with the increasing emphasis in medical schools and the federal government on preventing diseases before expensive medical treatment becomes necessary. As we see it, 'prevention' is rapidly becoming the key word in the medical field," Anderson said.

Although the blueprint for Heart Watch has not definitely been established, the new program is expected to operate in several important areas:

— A clearing house can be established where the public can obtain information on heart disease and its prevention. Printed information and audiovisual materials could be made available there for use throughout the community.

— A dietary consultation service could be arranged regarding weight control and lowering of cholesterol intake through proper diet. Patients could attend special sessions upon the recommendation of their physicians.

— A speakers bureau, primarily composed of physicians, nurses and other qualified personnel, could be arranged for presentations to groups.

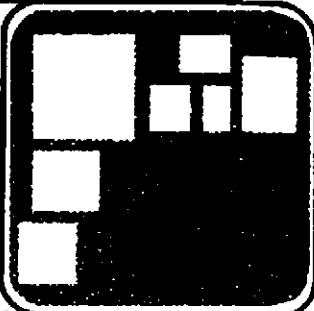

— Informational programs for the schools could be set up to emphasize the importance of exercise, a good diet and the harmful effects of smoking. The object is to reach youngsters at an age when they actually are prone to adopt bad health habits.

— Eventually a screening program among employees of various industries could be arranged to alert individuals to the risk factors.

Oneida bridge referendum again pushed

While Appleton officials await a planner's report on local bridge and traffic needs, agitation has revived itself at City Hall for a spring referendum to test public sentiment toward the proposed high-level Oneida Street bridge.

The report was due at the end of December, but is being held up to be coordinated with the state-directed traffic survey begun under the old Fox Valley Council of Governments for the entire valley.

The state study is expected to be completed this week, including among other items computerized predictions of traffic pressure on all valley thoroughfares through the end of the century.

The Appleton bridge and traffic study, being prepared by Harland Bartholomew & Associates urban planners, is expected to be completed within about two weeks, according to Appleton Planning Director Jack Hetu.

Hetu said the Harland Bartholomew study is being delayed in order "to state's projections and our own."

If the local report is presented within the two-week period Hetu estimates, it would be about a month behind the timetable given the council when Harland Bartholomew was hired. At that time, a year-end, 1972, completion date was given.

The city council authorized the study as a means of gathering the basic information voters will need to assess the need for the new bridge. The study also is intended to serve as one of several elements in an updated citywide comprehensive plan, with the other elements to be updated later.

The delay in receiving the report does not yet put a time squeeze on the hopes of some aldermen for a spring referendum. It is generally assumed the referendum would be of the advisory sort, which is relatively easy to place on the ballot, compared with more complicated legal requirements for a binding referendum.

City Clerk Elden Broehm said he could include an advisory referendum question on the April ballot up to two weeks before the election date, April 3.

Mayor James Sutherland said today he intends to present his recommendations to the council "in the near future, as to how we should proceed on the question of the bridge," including whether he favors a referendum.

He said the phrase, "how we should proceed" is important, including a referendum as a possible option but not necessarily favoring it or ruling out other possibilities.

He said it is possible that the traffic study might show, for instance, that the bridge is not an important priority item at present, which would make a referendum unnecessary.

While the mayor did not say how soon he would make his recommendations, he said they might be ready in time for Wednesday night's regular meeting of the city council.

He also said he is withholding any position in favor of the bridge or against it until the results of the study are in.

Hit by train

A 12-year-old Appleton girl receives medical attention this morning after she was struck by the engine of a Chicago and North Western freight train at the Badger Avenue crossing. According to police, Elizabeth Verhagen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Verhagen, 718 W. Lawrence St., was walking next to the tracks when the train approached her from the rear, traveling at 25 m.p.h. The engineer, Gerald Reader of Fond du Lac, sounded the whistle, but the girl slid into the path of the engine and was knocked into a snow bank. The girl was reported in serious condition late this morning at St. Elizabeth Hospital with head injuries. (Post-Crescent photos by Ralph L. Acker)

Crash kills LU girl in Costa Rica

Christine Gerdes, 20, Des Moines, Iowa, a junior anthropology major at Lawrence University, was killed in a one-car accident early Sunday in Costa Rica, university officials said today.

Miss Gerdes, who went to the Central American country earlier this month on a six month field study program, was riding in the front seat of a car when it slammed into a bridge. Another person riding in the front seat was killed, while two back seat passengers were injured. Identities of the other victims were not immediately known.

Miss Gerdes was one of five Lawrence University people, four of whom were students, working on field study programs in Costa Rica and living with local families. None of the others were involved in the accident.

The program with which she was working, is sponsored by the Associated Colleges of the Midwest.

The other four, including Allen M. Young, an assistant professor of biology and students Sue Perry and Mr. and Mrs. John Thomason, are doing biological field research in a different part of the country.

The victim served as a counselor to freshmen women this year and was termed "a brilliant student, one of the very best," by Dr. Ron Mason, professor of anthropology.

Consolidated Papers, Inc., has submitted its pollution abatement schedule for its Appleton plant to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). If certain conditions don't work out, the firm agrees to close the plant by March 1, 1974.

However, William R. Durdell, Appleton plant manager, said he was optimistic the first of three conditions — testing the feasibility of Consolidated's waste being treated by Appleton's expanded treatment plant — would be successful. He said the tests would begin Feb. 15 and take no more than three months.

Churches work for ABC

Sunday has been set aside as ABC Sunday for many Appleton churches.

The Appleton Area Clergy Association has endorsed the effort by the ABC board to acquaint the community with the program for the culturally disadvantaged youths attending high schools in Appleton, and to raise the needed funds to meet the budget.

"We are setting this day aside to express our concern and brotherly love by making contributions for the support of ABC," explained Marwin Wroldstad, chairman of the special committee for the project. Working with him in the effort are other ABC board members: Mrs. Bryna Livingston, Mrs. Betty Bruenig, Jack Butler, John McKenzie, Bart Hammond, Elmer Otte and Mrs. Harold Mills.

Participating congregations include St. Pius X, St. Bernadette, St. Thomas More, St. Mary, St. Therese, Sacred Heart and St. Bernard Catholic churches, All Saints' Episcopal, Christian Missionary Alliance;

Memorial Presbyterian, Church of the Open Bible, First Assembly of God, First Baptist, First Congregational and St. John United churches of Christ, First and Emmanuel United Methodist churches, and Zion, Grace, Our Saviour, Faith, and First English and Our Redeemer Lutheran churches. St. James United Methodist conducted ABC Sunday last Sunday, due to a conflict in scheduling.

The ABC program in Appleton enables 18 youths from disadvantaged backgrounds to attend Appleton High Schools — East and West and Xavier.

Three local pastors have written commentaries on why their congregations are supporting the program.

BY WAYNE RYDBERG
Pastor, Our Redeemer Lutheran

See the form which human life is, my brothers and sisters, when stripped of all its clutter, irrelevant detail, and words given us by a surrounding culture.

Get to the core and there will be a statement of what man is and what you are.

We call ourselves Christians. It is more than a name. It confirms our deepest beliefs. We seek to serve the love that brought forth sons and a world, a love given to us. A love which is offered not to acquire or possess, but to share.

At our core we find this instruction, "Love your neighbor as you love yourself." ABC is a chance to confirm what we have been given as a community. The people of ABC will be a blessing or a curse to us as we exercise our love.

At the core of the church there is a statement of what man is: "If anyone says I love you but keeps on hating his brother, he is a liar. For if he doesn't love his brother who is right there in front of him, how can he love God, whom he has never seen?"

BY GERALD FALK
Pastor, St. Thomas More Catholic

For five years the ABC program has faced us with a challenge. It puts our Christianity on the line. It asks us to respond with concern and love to young people outside of Appleton. ABC faces us with talented young people who may not look like we do; who may come from different family backgrounds; who may not have the same viewpoints we do.

This at times makes it difficult to respond. However, those who have responded by opening their minds, hearts and homes and often their pocketbooks to ABC will attest to their own growth.

Isn't this what Christ meant when he said: "It is in giving that we shall receive."

BY JOHN E. FELIBLE
Pastor, First Congregational UCC

As a relative newcomer who is happy to be a part of the Appleton community, I am delighted to have the opportunity to congratulate the far-sighted people who initiated the ABC program in 1968.

To give outstanding young people of disadvantaged neighborhoods across the nation an opportunity to experience the fine educational, cultural and environmental climate of this fortunate community will no doubt add much to their personal development.

But perhaps the greatest reward of all is that which comes to us as we begin to discover at the response level the many existing social and economic inequities in our culture.

I gladly join with other religious and community leaders in urging the churches to respond generously to this present financial appeal.

Our response will be a deciding factor in the continuation of this worthwhile program.

Let's face it, if we don't do it, who will?

Consolidated submits abatement schedule

Consolidated Papers, Inc., has submitted its pollution abatement schedule for its Appleton plant to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). If certain conditions don't work out, the firm agrees to close the plant by March 1, 1974.

However, William R. Durdell, Appleton plant manager, said he was optimistic the first of three conditions — testing the feasibility of Consolidated's waste being treated by Appleton's expanded treatment plant — would be successful. He said the tests would begin Feb. 15 and take no more than three months.

The other two conditions that must be met before Consolidated will decide to keep the plant open are that St. Regis Paper Co., Rhinelander, will contract to buy its pulp and that Consolidated will be assured it won't have to pay a proportion of the capital costs for the plant addition.

Durdell said today the latter two conditions still haven't been resolved. He noted that one problem is that St. Regis apparently is hesitant to shut down its own pulp mill until it has a sure alternate source of pulp.

There were questions raised at recent joint EPA-State Department of Natural Resource (DNR) meetings with Consolidated about whether the Wisconsin Rapids-based firm could escape paying the capital cost under new federal requirements.

At the most recent meeting, Consolidated was given until today to submit a final detailed compliance program under the pressure of the DNR abatement orders, coming due June 30, 1972, and the EPA 180-day notice, which ordered the firm and others to come up with an acceptable schedule by this spring.

Consolidated has asked that EPA and DNR officials respond to the program schedule by Feb. 1.

Durdell said the program schedule submitted indicates the company would be able to make a decision by Sept. 1 whether to stay open. It needs six months after that decision to phase out the operation, if it is to close, he added.

If the EPA and DNR don't accept the program, the Appleton plant conceivably could close this summer. And if the treatability studies prove negative, it could be closed next fall, according to timetables and conditions the company has outlined.

"We are saying that we will begin implementing it as soon as we get positive answers to our three problems," Durdell said.

Consolidated, Riverside Paper Co. and the City of Appleton, as well as Neenah-Menasha and several Twin Cities industries, have been under pressure through EPA 180-day notices to come up with firm schedules for compliance with the DNR abatement orders. Appleton and others have been given until Feb. 1, 1973, to submit their detailed programs.

Exhibit
at FVTI

Ethnic art, fashioned by students of the interior decoration and fashion merchandising programs at Fox Valley Technical Institute, will be exhibited from 6 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday. Early American stichery, Scandinavian rugs, Egyptian tapestry, Lapland backpack weaving and Spanish "eyes of God" will be displayed and on sale. Getting ready for the exhibit are, from left, Debbie Robl, who made the mobile; Julie Janous, Mrs. Joan Rolfs, the instructor, and David Bedore. (Post-Crescent photo)

Positive self-concepts

Pilot projects which will enhance positive self-concepts in pupils are being designed by a special team of educators from McKinley School, Madison Junior High School and Appleton High School-East. Special workshops which include resource people from the local school system and specialists from the University of Wisconsin will be conducted during the year. Saturday, Dr. Charles J. Pulvino, third from left, one of two assistant professors from the department of counseling and guidance at the UW, helps local educators make plans for the projects. They are, from left, Ellie Eggener, consultant; Richard Lee, teacher at AHS-E, and Elsie Johnson, a counselor at Madison. The teams are working on early identification of learning assets and liabilities, reading problems, teacher-pupil relationships and effective communications in the classroom. (Post-Crescent photo)

Federal funds in banks awaiting county needs

OSHKOSH — Concrete commitment of revenue sharing funds received by Winnebago County probably won't be made until the middle of the year when the financial picture of two major projects is brought into clearer focus, Orrin King, county board chairman, said today.

King said he was referring to the additional local share of the tab of the Little Lake Butte des Morts bridge project the county will have to pick up (tentatively estimated at $900,000.) and the remodeling costs of the county mental hospital, placed at between $500,000 to one million dollars because of stiffer federal safety regulations.

The county in previous years budgeted funds in excess of one million dollars for the bridge project, which it initially appropriated by floating a bond issue several years ago.

Winnebago County was one of 13 state counties, according to the Public Expenditure Survey of Wisconsin, which did not use the revenue sharing funds to reduce the county tax levy.

A bid opening has been set for April on the bridge project, on which the city and town of Menasha shall also participate financially. The county must pick up the complete tab on the remodeling of the county mental institution, a remodeling prompted by tighter federal regulations for fire protection and other measures.

Two checks, totaling $680,000, have been received, county Auditor M. H. Morrisette said today. They represent reimbursements for the last half of 1972 under the federal revenue sharing program.

Through December of the current year, Morrisette said, the county can expect to receive three more revenue sharing checks. These would represent payments for the first three quarters of the calendar year, he said. A final check, taking into account the last three months of 1973, would be received in 1974, he said.

King said the county has been advised that the checks received in 1973, will be five per cent higher — about $35,000 — than those it got for 1972.

Using the figure of $178,500 then, as the quarterly allotment to the county, one arrives at an end-of-the-year revenue sharing total of $1,215,500. This includes the $680,000 already received. By the time the last check arrives in April, 1974, revenue sharing funds to the county would have totaled $1,394,000.

Director to be named for Title III project

NEENAH — Though no name has yet been released by school officials, it looks as though a Title III project director is only 24 hours away from being selected.

The project's nucleus committee has apparently settled on one man and he's due in Neenah Tuesday to either accept or reject the job. If he accepts, he'll be on the job next Monday. Starting date was supposed to be today, however the job of screening applicants proved larger than expected and the holidays also delayed proceedings.

The director, who must meet with school board approval, will be directly responsible to the school administration and to the board. His job will be a big one — that of coordinator and overseer of the three-year project aimed at expanding the Armstrong campus into the community. The Neenah Project, by which it has come to be known, will use community resources as a vital part of a student's education.

The director's first task will be the selection of a Commission of Education in the Community (CEC). He and Oscar Mussman, director of secondary education, and Armstrong principal James Cole will select six citizens, six students and six faculty members to sit on the CEC. Cole and Mussman will also be members of the group and the project director will chair the commission.

The CEC will be responsible for keeping citizens, faculty and students informed of project developments. Members will be directly responsible to the project director.

The director will also be immediately involved in selection of students, citizens and faculty to serve on four other committees. By March, he and the nucleus committee, a carry over group from the project's planning stages, will have selected about 36 persons to serve on communications, curriculum improvement, development day and faculty committees.

Record-keeping will be a major job of the director during the three-year term. It will involve making assessments of the degree of community understanding and involvement in the project and reporting accomplishment of objectives.

The director will be hired on a year to year basis since the project is funded in such a way. A first year operational grant of $74,000 was approved in mid December, but the project will have to receive favorable evaluation when the year is out if it is to receive second year funding.

NM councils eye means to raise $5.6 million

NEENAH-MENASHA — Twenty-eight million dollars is a lot of money. But that's what it's going to cost to right the Twin City sewage plant and the local taxpayers are going to have to pay for it.

Although the $28 million is a huge, almost incomprehensible amount, it drops considerably when federal money offsets about 80 per cent of it, bringing the local financial responsibility down to $5.6 million.

Tonight, city fathers from both cities will meet to hear a total breakdown of where the money'll be spent and attempt to find out how each city is going to finance its share.

According to the Consoer-Townsend report, the local financing is split about 60 per cent Neenah and 40 per cent Menasha.

This means that Menasha will have to find about $2,234,400, and Neenah, with its greater effluent contribution, will be expected to scrape up $3,365,600.

So, as with the family, faced with a major home improvement or purchasing a new car to replace the old buggy which just won't run anymore, the two cities are going to have to borrow the money to pay the contractors as the plans and specifications are transformed to bricks and mortar and equipment to treat the sewage.

How and where to finance is the problem facing both cities, especially with other municipal needs like streets, sewers, fire and police protection pressing to the forefront.

Municipalities have three alternatives to borrow money. They are:

— Selling a general obligation bond issue which is underwritten and usually repaid from the tax levy.

— Selling a revenue bond issue which is paid back from money collected for a specific purpose such as the sewer user fee.

— Short term loans through local banks, paid for from general city revenue but usually for small amounts or taken out to pay off a bill which will be bonded for later.

Since the amounts of money involved with the sewage treatment plant are too much to finance through short term loans, both cities are looking at bonding.

Cities are limited by state law as to how much debt can be outstanding in bond issues. However, the revenue bonds, because of the method of repayment, aren't counted against a city's debt limit.

But, as the revenue bond doesn't have the backing of the city tax levy, the interest cost usually run about one half to three quarters of a per cent higher. Over the 20 or 25-year life of the bond issue, this means thousands of dollars.

The C&T report points out that to finance the new plant, Menasha would be paying an estimated $199,890 each year. This is based on an interest rate of 5 1/2 per cent over 25 years.

Neenah's annual cost would be $270,055, based on 5 per cent over 20 years of the general obligation bond issue.

Added to already existing bonds and debts for the sewage plant, the annual repayment for both cities is estimated at $585,926, an amount which is negated via the sewer user fee to pay off the bond issues, Neenah is leaning toward a general obligation issue because it has sufficient cushion in its limit.

Menasha, however, isn't in that position and has pretty well decided that revenue bonds are the way to go because the $2.2 million would put it much too close to its debt limit.

Today, Mayor Roman V. Hauser indicated that he was investigating the "advantages of each type of bond issue" implying that revenue bonds may have to be the route of Neenah as well.

One factor in this decision is how many other municipal projects will be financed through borrowing. One is the $800,000 interceptor sewer that the sewerage commission has decided will be paid for by Neenah. Others are streets which must be paved and clear water separation.

Steinhilber to play key legislative role

The output of the 1973-74 session of the state legislature — one that Democratic Gov. Patrick Lucey hopes will be one of the most productive in state history — could depend to a great degree on the performance of Oshkosh Republican State Sen. Jack Steinhilber.

Steinhilber, as assistant majority leader of the Republican-controlled Senate, will have something to say about how that arm of the legislature treats the Lucey proposals supported by the Democratic-controlled assembly.

The conservative Steinhilber has already said he will not sit by while the Senate becomes a "rubber stamp" for Lucey programs. It will instead, he says, "provide a constructive alternative to the Lucey Democrat programs."

Steinhilber, some feel, could be the Republican candidate for attorney general in 1974. That, too, could sweep him into the foreground of Republican opponents to Democratic proposals in the upcoming session.

Steinhilber has been appointed chairman of the Senate committee on Housing and Urban Development. He is also a member of the committee on industry, labor, taxation and banking and the committee on administrative rules.

Judge to speak at program for retired

Circuit Court Judge R. Thomas Cane will speak at the weekly Appleton YMCA program for retired people. His talk on "Family Court" will begin at 10:15 a.m. Tuesday.

It will be preceded by a 9 a.m. billiard lesson and a coffee hour.

Exercises will be at 11 a.m. and a water gymnastics class at 11:30 a.m. Luncheon, recreational swimming, card games and billiards round out the program.

Those who need transportation may contact the YMCA. There is no charge for the first visit and guests are welcome. A special membership is required for those who wish to attend regularly.

Police officers hurt Sunday in 2 accidents

Two Appleton area police officers were injured in separate two-car accidents Sunday evening.

LeRoy W. Ziegler, 43, 2336 Apple Creek Road, an Outagamie County patrolman, complained of a sore back after his squad car was struck from the rear by a car driven by Gerald M. Vandewymelenberg, 56, Green Bay, as both vehicles headed south on U.S. 41, one-quarter mile north of U.S. 10 in the Town of Grand Chute about 7:30 p.m.

Marlen J. Kahl, 36, 1906 E. Pauline St., suffered neck and elbow pains when his State Patrol car was struck by a car driven by John J. Kulhanek, 25, Green Bay, on U.S. 41, one-quarter mile west of State 47 in the Town of Grand Chute about 7:45 p.m. Kahl had stopped his auto on the left shoulder of the northbound lane while assisting a motorist who drove into a ditch.

Kulhanek, headed north on 41, lost control of his car while attempting to avoid the patrol car.

Open house set at FVTI on meatcutting

An open house for meatcutters, meat market and supermarket managers to view the new meatcutting facilities used in the apprenticeship program at the Fox Valley Technical Institute has been set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A short session to explain the program is planned, with Ralph Moehring, vice president of the S.C. Shannon Co., Appleton, as the main speaker.

The apprenticeship program is composed of three years of on-the-job experience as an indentured apprentice with an employer. During those years, 400 hours of related instruction is acquired at FVTI. The related instruction includes meat technology, shop mathematics, record keeping, nutrition, preparation of meat, economics, human relations and public relations. Joseph Grow is the coordinator for the program.

Richard A. Dudarenke, 23, New Holstein, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton for head injuries, which he received when his car, was struck by a Chicago & North Western train, engineered by Walter Reschke, Fond du Lac, at a crossing in the 200 block of S. Badger Avenue about 2:30 p.m. Saturday. The car was pushed in front of the engine about 250 feet. Police said Dudarenke was traveling northwest on Badger Avenue and apparently failed to see the train in time to stop. (Post-Crescent photo)

Well drillers may get new license classifications

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A rewriting of the state code regulating the drilling of wells is one of the goals of the state Department of Natural Resources in the new legislature.

The bill that will be jointly presented by the department and the well drillers' trade association will refine the licensing requirements by creating new license classifications and provide that the well driller be responsible for the securing of all the permits that other regulations require for the construction of a private well.

The measure also will propose to bring under the licensing and regulation law those persons who install the driven point wells, usually used in light soil regions and elsewhere where the water table is higher than in most of the state.

A principal purpose of their licensing would be to require reports of such drilling activities to be filed with the state agency, an official explained.

Wells have been dug and drilled in Wisconsin since pioneer times and until recent decades record keeping was casual. But the men now in the state well licensing section agree on an estimate that there are "at least" 500,000 wells in the state, including the point driven wells which have not been required to be reported.

The number of private wells is increasing at the rate of about 9,000 a year, according to drillers' reports.

The new licensing proposal would provide for licensing by categories. There would be a driller's license, and drillers' helpers would be licensed separately. Thus new applicants for well driller licenses would be recruited from those with some training and experience. There is no apprenticeship program in the trade.

Another category would cover contractors, thus permitting convenient sales of well drilling businesses by permitting those who do not actually drill wells to buy such enterprises.

Police-Fire beat

A 17-year-old pedestrian suffered leg injuries when he was struck by a car in the 600 block of W. College Avenue about 9 p.m. Saturday.

Police said Russell S. Rice, 915 Ridge Lane, darted in front of a car driven by Michael J. Stinski, 18, 744 W. Cecil St., Neenah, as the vehicle proceeded west.

Linda Wright, 24, Green Bay, was taken by private ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 2:30 p.m. Sunday after she suffered a back injury while tobogganing in the 500 block of W. Packard Street.

CENTER—Louis R. Kuhnke, 18, Shawano, suffered an injured spleen when his car skidded off Outagamie County Trunk A, one-quarter mile south of Center Valley Road, about 9 p.m. Friday.

County police said the car traveled sideways through a ditch before rolling over and striking a fence.

Appeal gains in hair suit

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — E. Jeffery Seymour of Racine, who claimed he lost his insurance company job because he refused to cut his hair, won a round Thursday in his appeal of the case to the state.

The Department of Industry, Labor, and Human Relations said there was probable cause to believe the firing of Seymour by the Milwaukee Mutual Insurance Co., Milwaukee, may have been result of sex discrimination.

The agency directed Seymour and the insurance company to submit proposals to the Bureau of Legal Services in an effort to reconcile their differences.

Seymour, who was hired by the firm in February, 1968, contended he lost his job in January, 1970, after he refused to get his hair cut as directed by superiors.

The company said Seymour was not dismissed for long hair but for "a poor work attitude of which the long hair was indicative." Seymour claimed sex discrimination, asserting he was required to cut his hair to maintain employment, while similarly situated women at the firm were not required to do so.

After conducting a hearing, the agency said there existed "probable cause to believe that (Seymour) was terminated because of a condition imposed on him peculiar to his sex, and which was not based on his ability to do his job."

The agency directed both parties to bargain in good faith and "affectuate adequate and proper relief" for Seymour.

Mack plans to run for council seat

A 26-year-old University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley student, Michael P. Mack, 1191 1/2 W. Wisconsin Ave., has become the third candidate to seek nomination to the city's 1st Ward city council seat, raising the prospect of a March 6 primary.

Mack received nomination papers previously to Richard G. Huisman, a former alderman, and the incumbent 1st Ward council representative, Ald. Bruce E. Stutzman.

A primary would be necessary if all three had completed nomination papers.

Mack ran unsuccessfully as the Democratic candidate for the 14th District seat in the State Senate last April.

So far the 1st Ward is the only one of the 10 that elect aldermen next spring in which a primary is possible. There are only two others in which the incumbent alderman has so far attracted opposition, the 5th and 17th wards.

The present aldermen in the 3rd, 7th, 9th, 11th, 13th, 15th and 19th wards are all without opposition so far, with Jan. 30 as the deadline for filing nomination papers. Not less than 20 nor more than 40 signatures of residents within the ward are required to qualify for candidacy.

Ald. Orval Polzin today became the fifth candidate to file completed nomination papers, to seek a third 2-year term as 3rd Ward alderman.

Certificates given to nursing assistants

Fifteen pre-service nursing assistant students have completed the course at the Fox Valley Technical Institute and have received certificates.

The graduates are Katherine L. Lecker, Jane M. Kuehn, Diane R. Neubert, Joan R. Schueler, Karen L. Schueler, Pam M. Visocky and Bonnie J. Waiteshek, all of Appleton; Catherine K. Muscle plan fails

Bucks win 5th straight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Chicago Bulls did their best to outpush, out-muscle and generally wear down Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, but got nothing more for their efforts than a third successive defeat worth two games in the standings Sunday night.

Abdul-Jabbar countered the physical tactics of Chicago centers Clifford Ray and Dennis Awtrey with finesse, sinking 15 of 21 shots for 35 points, grabbing 17 rebounds and blocking three shots to lead the Milwaukee Bucks to a 100-95 National Basketball Association victory.

The Bucks, running their latest winning streak to five games despite Oscar Robertson's absence for a third consecutive game because of a hamstring pull, opened a 4½-game lead over Chicago in the Midwest Division standings.

The Bulls won the battle of rebounds 51-43. But many were missed second and third shots that cost them dearly, especially near the end.

Down by 15 points early in the third quarter, Chicago rallied behind Jerry Sloan's 16 points after intermission, and four times trailed by only three points in the final period.

A hook by Abdul-Jabbar gave Milwaukee a 94-89 edge with 3:37 left. Chicago missed shots on its next two possessions, and two freethrows by Abdul-Jabbar and a layup by Lucius Allen made it 98-91.

Garfield Heard sank a jump shot with 1:05 to go. Chicago's first field goal in more than four minutes. Then Abdul-

Elsner wins $1,000 prize at Shawano

SHAWANO, Wis. (AP) — Bob Elsner, New London, won the "Winternational Cup" race and $1,000 first prize with an Arctic Cat Sunday, capping a weekend of snowmobile racing.

Stock winners Sunday were Terry Dorschner, New London, Arctic Cat, Class A; Allen Decker, Marshfield, Skiddoo, Class B; Brian Meyer, Marinette, Skiddoo, Class C, and Mike Decker, Marshfield, Skiddoo, Class D.

Modified winners included Mike Lauters, Grafton, Arctic Cat, Modified I; Elsner, Arctic Cat, Modified II; Cory Ruppelt, Eau Claire, Modified III, and Don Drews, Oconto Falls, Arctic Cat, Modified IV and V.

Jabbar all but wrapped it up with a baseline jumper with :43 left.

Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello challenged a suggestion by a visiting reporter that 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar, because of his size and reputation, sometimes receives favorable treatment from officials.

"I think they ought to call some of those fouls against Awtrey, the way he pushes people around," Costello said.

"Awtrey is probably the worst hatchet man," Costello said. "There's not even a comparison, the way guys lay on Kareem all the time. He's not a physical center."

Ray said he tried to force Abdul-Jabbar out of position for his favorite sky hooks, but fell victim to his own inexperience.

'I shoulda ate it'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Quarterback Bob Griese laughed and said he'd try to work with Garo Yepremian on his passing, but the Super Bowl champion Miami kicker said, "I shoulda ate it" instead of trying to throw the ball after his attempted field goal was blocked.

Yepremian grabbed the ball and tried to throw it after the kick was blocked, but the Redskins' Mike Bass picked it off and ran 49 yards for Washington's only touchdown Sunday.

I shoulda ate it," Yepremian said, "I should have just fallen on the ball."

He said "I just picked up the ball and thought I could throw it to somebody. I saw two teammates who were open but when I tried to throw the ball just slipped out of my hands."

Yepremian said, "My mind went blank."

Afterwards he spent worried minutes on the sidelines, frightened that he might have blown the game.

"I was so scared, scared maybe I could have lost the game," the 5-foot-8 soccer style kicker from Cyprus said.

"Wouldn't it have been terrible ... we win 16 games in a row and then if we'd lost on that play of mine people still would have said we were a fluke team."

As it turned out, the play may have been a fluke but the Dolphins proved they weren't. 14-7.

Underdog Dolphins prove unbeatable

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Welcome to the Super Bowl Fish Fry," said the bedsheet banner in the massive Memorial Coliseum. However, it was the Washington Redskins who got neatly sauteed by pro football's unbeatable underdogs, the Miami Dolphins.

"Washington's Championship Menu: Filet of Dolphin," said another homemade paean to Coach George Allen's Over-The-Hill Gang. However, it was Miami quarterback Bob Griese who feasted on the tasty gaps in the Redskins' defense.

It was bullish Larry Csonka who gobbled up the Coliseum turf. It was Manny Fernandez who chewed up the Washington ground game. It was Jake Scott who speared the Redskin aerial attack like a hungry interloper amid trays of hors d'oeuvres.

And when the banquet was over on Sunday, the Miami Dolphins, with a victory in Super Bowl VII far more convincing than the final 14-7, had become the National Football League's first team to munch their way through an entire season without so much as a tie to blemish their record.

With the American Conference's top offense and equally supreme defense, they had barreled through the year with a 14-0 record. Then, in a pair of come-from-behind efforts, they'd nudged past Cleveland 20-14 and Pittsburgh 21-17 for the AFC title.

Silently determined And finally, as underdogs of anywhere from one to three points, they marched into Super Bowl VII, silently determined to shove into the background their 24-3 humiliation at the hands of the Dallas Cowboys in the championship game of a year ago.

They didn't just push it into the background. They obliterated it. "I don't want I'm gonna tell these guys in training camp," Coach Don Shula said in the jubilant Miami locker room, "except maybe, 'we gotta win the College All-Star Game.'"

"There was always the empty feeling of not having accomplished the ultimate," said Shula, who twice had taken teams into the Super Bowl and twice had come away a loser. "This is the ultimate."

The Dolphins had come within one busted field goal attempt in the waning minutes of becoming the first shutout victor in the Super Bowl.

And, with their 17-0 record, they moved within one victory of the Chicago Bears' twice-achieved record for the NFL's longest winning streak. They won't know until perhaps late April, when the league releases the 1973 schedule, who could be No. 18.

The Bears of 1934 and 1942 had battered their way through perfect seasons only to lose the championship games. Did that make these Dolphins the ultimate team, a thoroughly mature but still relatively young squad which had blown gaping holes in Allen's "the future is now" concept of a trade acquired machine of veterans?

"It's hard for me to compare other teams of other times," said Shula. "No other team has ever won it all and then this, too. I think they deserve everything they've got coming."

The scoring statistics are simple. A 28-year Griese-to-Howard Twilley touchdown pass with one second to go in the first quarter and a one-yard Jim Kiick plunged with 18 to go in the second. But that hardly tells much of a story.

Washington's scoring is a bit more complicated — and it tells an important story. It was the defense, helped by a frenzy of confusion, that got the points. Garo Yepremian's 42-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Bill Brundige and, when the Cypriot place-kicker recovered the ball and tried to pass it, he lost the handle.

Cornerback Mike Bass snatched it in mid-air and galloped 49 yards down the ignominy for Washington.

Suddenly, the record championship crowd of 90,182 fans — and the estimated 75 million television viewers, including those in unblack-out Los Angeles — had themselves a close game. They waited for the onside kick. But it never came.

"There was too much time left," Allen said. "You just try to kick deep, hold them and maybe block the punt." But they didn't hold them until barely a minute remained. They didn't block the

'No Names' have too many stars in MVP voting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When the experts got around to picking a hero of Miami's 14-7 Super Bowl victory, they found themselves in a mob scene of Dolphins.

Defensive line stalwart Manny

"It was the best day of my 26 years. I've been looking for this since I was a kid."

And Fernandez, who made the Dolphin roster as a free agent, still likes the "No Name Defense" tag hung on the Miami defenders earlier this season.

"It's just a nickname and they should know now that we're a team."

Fernandez played head-on with Washington center Len Hauss, a 235-pounder with nine years experience, most of the afternoon in Memorial Stadium.

"I played off the ball a little more than usual so he couldn't get good blocking angles," Manny explained.

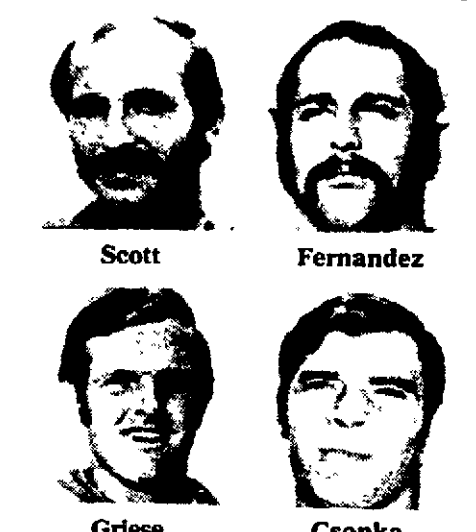

Defensive captain Nick Buoniconti, whose pass interception set up the second Dolphin touchdown, commented, "I think our line had the best game ever played by four guys up front in Dolphin uniform."

So add to your heroes list— defensive ends Bill Stanfill and Vern Den Herder and defensive tackle Bob Heinz. And don't forget Bob Matheson who comes in as a linebacker on the three-man front defense the Dolphins know as 53. That's Matheson's number.

Scott intercepted one Bill Kilmer pass on the first series of the second quarter and another three yards deep in the end zone in the fourth stanza. He brought that one back to the Redskins 48 before Charley Harraway caught him from behind.

The Dolphin safetyman was named winner of an automobile given by a national sports magazine to the man it considers the most valuable in the Super Bowl.

Quarterback Griese, the 27-year-old who hadn't started for 10 games after a broken ankle, hit six passes in as many attempts in the first half.

Fernandez figured in 10 tackles, most for either team...

Jake Scott intercepted two passes, equalling a Super Bowl record...

Bob Griese, starting his first game since a broken ankle early in the season, marshaled the offense and directed forces to twontouchdowns—setting up one with a pass and passing for the other...

Larry Csonka came within nine yards of the Super Bowl rushing record with 112 in 15 carries.

"I think we proved we have the best defense in football, the best offense in football and the best football team," declared the agile 250-pound Fernandez, the keystone man in the Dolphins' front wall.

Dolphins win crown punt, a 40-yarder by Larry Seiple that dumped the Redskins back on their own 30-yard line.

Then, after three incomplete passes by Billy Kilmer and a final crushing quarterback sack that left him staring helplessly at the smog-laden California sky, the Dolphins, for their 60 minutes of work, were each $15,000 richer — closer to $25,000 if you include the AFC playoff shares.

The National Conference champion Redskins each receive about $17,500 including the $7,500 Super Bowl loser's check.

Griese, who played it protectively cozy in the second half, finishing the game with eight completions on 11 passes for 88 yards, was dynamite in the first half of his first start since the first game of the season, when leg and ankle injuries brought Earl Morrill in as the signal-caller.

In the first two periods he went 6-for-6 for 75 yards. And he would have been 8-for-8 for 142 yards had not a 20-yarder to Marv Fleming and a 47-yard scoring bomb to Paul Warfield been wiped out by penalties.

It seemed the teams would go scoreless through the first period before Griese got Miami moving from its own 37-yard line with three minutes to go. A series of rushes by Kick and an 18-yard bullet to Warfield put the ball on the Washington 28.

Then Griese looked for his ace receiver again. "Warfield had double coverage so Twilley had single coverage with Pat Fischer," he recalled. "He just went down and beat him."

With a beautiful inside move that had Fischer faked out of his cleats, Twilley was well clear of the Redskins' cornerback when the ball arrived at the six-yard line. Fischer recovered but his tackle came just as Twilley lunged into the right corner of the end zone.

It was Jake Scott, who came up with two of Miami's interceptions, one of them near midfield in the opening minutes of the second period, the other a touchdown killer in the end zone which he returned 55 yards just before Yepremian's messed up field goal attempt.

But it was linebacker Nick Buoniconti's interception that set the stage for the Dolphins' second-period touchdown. He grabbed Kilmer's pass at the Miami 41 and made it back to the Washington 27. Three-yard runs by Kick and Csonka, a 19-yard Griese-to Jim Mandich pass and two more plunges by Kick and the score was 14-0.

Plenty of time

There was still plenty of time as the second half began and Kilmer, who finished with completions on half of his 28 passes for 104 yards, didn't seem about to waste it.

Four successive completions — 11 yards to Jerry Smith, 15 to Charley Taylor, then 15 and seven to Roy Jefferson, and the 'Skins were on the Miami 17.

But as suddenly as Kilmer had found his arm, he lost it — and he lost eight yards when Fernandez blew in to dump him. So it was up to Curt Knight to put Washington on the scoreboard.

He didn't. The place-kicker who had booted seven straight field goals in the NFC Playoffs against Green Bay and Dallas missed from 32 yards out.

"I simply did not throw that well today," said Kilmer, looking forward glumly to his role next Sunday in Dallas as quarterback of the NFC All-Star team in the Pro Bowl. "I think if I had thrown well we would have beaten them... that game next week doesn't mean a thing any more. Not without this one.

"We figured we had to run against Miami but their overall defense is so good that we couldn't get anything started," Larry Brown, who had led NFL rushers with 1,216 yards, managed 72 of Washington's 141 ground yards against the Dolphins, and he needed 22 carries to do it.

Csonka, meanwhile, brushed aside Redskins tacklers all day, piling up 112 yards, nine short of the Super Bowl record set by the New York Jets' Matt Snell in 1969.

Forty-nine of them came in one explosion charge through half the Redskins on the field with five minutes to go in the third quarter. He broke several tackles, gave Fischer a deadly forearm that sent him cartwheeling, then mangled Jack Pardee and Brig Owens as they wrestled him down at the Washington 16-yard line.

Five plays later, with the ball at the five, Griese made his only mistake. "I wanted at least three points because it had been a long drive and it could have put us into a 17-point lead going into the last period.

"All I was thinking was: 'Don't fumble, don't throw an interception. Just get the three points.' I saw Fleming break open in the corner of the end zone and I led him a little to make sure."

Makes interception

But Owens made sure Miami got no points, leaping in front of Fleming to make the interception. "It was exactly what I was trying to avoid," Griese said. "He just made a great play on the ball. It was the most upsetting thing about the game."

Allen said there were plenty of things to be upset about. One of them was an apparent fumbled snap by Miami center Howard Kindig in the opening minutes, one which Redskins' linebacker Harold McLinton slapped loose, then recovered on the Dolphins' 25-yard line.

The officials nailed McLinton for illegal procedure. It gave Miami a second chance to punt and this one was good, a 50-yard boomer by Seiple.

"A lot of centers in the league wind up when they snap the ball," Allen said. "Well, their center lifts up the front of the ball. Harold slapped the ball... the officials ruled it was our ball until one of them informed the referee about the penalty for encroachment."

And there was a fumbled punt by Scott later in the first period. The Redskins might have had the ball on the Dolphins' 37 — but Dick Anderson recovered for Miami.

"That was the biggest play of the first half," Allen said. "If we'd gotten that ball — and I feel we would have scored — we could have gone ahead and it would have been a different ball game."

One thing was different. President Nixon, who had avidly supported Miami a year ago in its Super Bowl loss, switched his allegiance this year to the Redskins and saw his heroes go down to defeat from the Florida White House in Key Biscayne.

"That was a fine game. There was suspense right up to the end," the President said — but he didn't say it to the coaches. He delayed his congratulatory and conciliatory telephone calls to Shula and Allen until today.

So there was no consolation for Allen, the former Los Angeles Rams' coach who, along with a wave of former Rams' players, returned to the scene of his five straight winning seasons.

"I can't get out of here fast enough," he said. "We'll stay overnight and leave in the morning. There'll be a lot of hours of agony tonight. It doesn't do any good to play in the Super Bowl and not win it. But my message to the team after the game was 'Don't worry. We'll be back.'"

Hockey play opens

The Appleton Recreation Department's Major Hockey League opens play at 7:30 p.m. today, when Appleton (managed by Gary Voelz) meets Neenah (Bill Dube) at Jones Park. The league's third team, the Flying Dutchmen (Jim Metz) meet Appleton Tuesday.

Tribute paid to Clemente

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Approximately 5,000 persons gathered at Hiram Bithorn Stadium Sunday in a memorial service for baseball star Roberto Clemente and four others who were killed in a New Year's Eve plane crash.

Puerto Rico's Governor, Rafael Hernandez Colon, was among the mourners and presented Mrs. Clemente and widows or friends of the other victims with commemorative plaques inscribed, "No One Has More Love Than He Who Gives His Life."

Clemente and the others died when their plane packed with relief supplies for victims of the Nicaraguan earthquake crashed off the coast of Rico.

North Carolina State nips Maryland, 87-85

By KEN RAPPORT

Norm Sloan has dealt a blow to strategy and at the same time, given Maryland's Atlantic Coast Conference title hopes a kick in the pants.

Professing "no game plan," North Carolina State's coach went into Sunday's blockbuster meeting with Maryland hopeful but unarmed with strategic plays.

It turned out better that way, as David Thompson tipped in a field goal with three seconds left to give third-ranked North Carolina State a tense 87-85 victory over the No. 2 Terrapins.

"We didn't have a last-shot play," confessed Sloan. "We didn't have an out-of-bounds play. We didn't even have a game plan. We just had general organization and tried to make something happen."

What happened to Maryland might not have happened if Coach Lefty Driesell had not used his game plan.

The Maryland coach, his team holding an 85-81 lead with roughly five minutes left, decided to freeze the ball.

"The theory was good," Driesell said later. "The idea was to make them foul. They did and we had our best shooter at the line but it didn't work."

Tom McMillen, an 85 per cent free-throw shooter this year, missed two vital one-on-one situations and the Wolfpack jumped on the mistakes.

Tim Stoddard tossed in a field goal and Thompson sank two free throws to tie the score at 85-all. Then Tom Burleson fired the ball toward the basket rim and Thompson picked it off in mid-flight and put it through.

North Carolina State, 11-0, thus remained one of two major college unbeaten in the land, knocking Maryland, 101 out of the dwindling class. The top-ranked UCLA Bruins show a 12-0 record after whipping California 69-50 Saturday for their 57th straight.

In other big games over the weekend, Notre Dame upset No. 4 Marquette 71-69; No. 17 Kansas State shocked No. 5 Missouri 70-55; No. 8 Minnesota walloped Wisconsin 78-54; No. 14 Alabama tripped ninth-ranked Vanderbilt 83-77; 11th-rated Providence trimmed Duquesne 86-79; San Francisco, No. 12, blasted Pepperdine 104-84; No. 13 Southwestern Louisiana toppled Texas-Arlington 79-73; No. 16 Indiana crushed Ohio State 81-67; No. 18 Florida State defeated Cincinnati 78-74; St. John's, N.Y., tied for No. 18, smothered St. Francis, N.Y., 93-72 and No. 20 Louisville clipped Wichita State 78-75 in double overtime.

Dick Allen's mother honored

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A Pennsylvania mother of three major league baseball players was honored here Sunday night as the sport's first "Baseball Mother of the Year."

Mrs. Era Allen of Wampum, Pa., whose sons include 1972 American League Most Valuable Player Dick Allen, received the title, plaque and a necklace at an annual Curbstone Coaches Hall of Fame Heart Fund banquet here.

Her other major league sons include Hank, who played with the Washington Senators and the Chicago White Sox, and Ron, a first baseman with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Crampton wins Phoenix Open test

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "There is no substitute for victory," Australian veteran Bruce Crampton said after his dramatic triumph in the Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

"I really don't feel I deserve to win," he said, almost apologetically, after sinking a 20-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole to break a multi-man tie for the top spot in the second tournament of the year on the pro tour.

"I made a lot of mistakes," he continued, "I feel there are a whole lot of times I've played better and didn't win."

USC's Davis doing well

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Anthony Davis, the sophomore sensation of Southern California's national college football champions, "is getting along fine" recovering from an automobile accident that partly severed his left achilles tendon, a physician says.

Davis' sports car hit a light pole Saturday morning after he apparently

Several times last year, in fact."

Crampton, 37 and now in his 17th season on the pro tour, failed to win last year but still collected over $100,000—much of it off second place finishes in both the U.S. Open and Masters.

"You can't advertise second place," the stocky man with the curly hair said after his 11th tour triumph. "You could finish second every week out there and make a lot of money but deep down inside you would still be trying to achieve victory."

fell asleep at the wheel, the California Highway Patrol said.

A passenger, Sharon Lyles, 19, was shaken up and later treated for shock, officers said.

Davis, the Trojan's leading ball carrier this last season, underwent surgery to repair the tendon and was also treated for cuts and bruises and a puncture wound in the right knee, doctors said.

Dr. Frank Jobe, who headed the team that performed the 90 minute surgery, said afterwards that "there is no indication that his career will be hampered."

Amherst posts win in last seconds of game

BOWLER — Buckets by Gary Tetzloff and Rick Stoltz with less than 18 seconds showing on the clock gave Amherst High School a thrilling 88-86 victory over Bowler in Central State Conference action.

Amherst trailed by two, 86-84, when Tetzloff dumped in his only field goal of the contest to tie things up and was fouled in the process. He missed the charity toss which could have won the game, but Stoltz rebounded for the Falcons and sunk a shot with :01 reading to ice the contest.

McCoy to visit U.S. servicemen

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Billy Kilmer of the Washington Redskins and safety George Atkinson of Oakland will be among 11 National Football League players to visit U.S. servicemen in Korea and Thailand, the NFL announced Saturday.

Joining Kilmer on the tour to Korea will be center Ken Inman of Los Angeles, defensive back Karl Kassulke of Minnesota, quarterback Marty Domres of Baltimore and cornerback Jim Marshall of Kansas City.

Going to Thailand with Atkinson will be safety Cliff Harris of Dallas, quarterback Archie Manning of New Orleans, defensive tackle Mike McCoy of Green Bay, wide receiver Joe Morrison of the New York Giants and defensive end John Zook of Atlanta.

8,400 'no shows'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The official paid attendance at Sunday's Super Bowl VII was a record 90,182 but only about 81,800 who paid for seats were actually inside the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum for the game between Miami and Washington.

About 8,400 "no shows" were reported by Super Bowl officials after the game. They gave no reason for the empty seats but the lifting of the television blackout locally combined with 86-degree temperatures may have prompted some to return to their cool dens and living rooms.

The 1973 Super Beetle is a whole different car inside.

For one thing, there's a lot more inside. We're giving you plenty of legroom up front. And fantastic headroom.

We've also done a nice thing for your nose. Our new windshield is pushed way forward, and curved. It's actually 42% larger.

For comfort, the seats, too, are curved. The same way what you sit on is. And the same way your back is.

Inertia type seatbelts buckle up as standard equipment.

The padded dash is completely redesigned. To be read in a flash.

Getting in and out of the back seat of the Bug is now pretty easy even for non-athletic types.

And we've had some very fresh ideas about air. And how to circulate it. Our remarkable improved ventilation system even de-fogs the side windows.

Altogether, the interior of the 1973 Super Beetle is so radically different, you'd have a hard time knowing it was a Beetle, except for the steering wheel insignia.

There remain, however, certain things that will give you the clue that you're driving a VW. Economy. Dependability. Our good old never-give-up character.

The beauty of the new inside may be its beauty. But the fact that it comes in the car it does, is the most beautiful part of all.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

Pass is show stealer in Super Bowl ground war

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Miami Dolphins and Washington Redskins both live by the run but the forward pass won and lost Super Bowl VII.

That and Miami's defense shut off the Redskins Sunday making the Dolphins champions of the National Football League with a 14-7 triumph.

"We won it up front — no doubt about that," Miami Coach Don Shula said, giving credit where credit is due to Manny Fernandez, Nick Buoniconti & Co.

"We felt in certain situations we could beat 'em with the pass," said Shula of the Miami passing attack that stunned Washington on the last play of the first quarter — a 28-yard touchdown pass from Bob Griese to Howard Twilley.

Another would-be touchdown pass to Paul Warfield of 47 yards was nullified by a penalty in the second quarter and a 19-yard pass to Jim Mandich set up Miami's second touchdown late in the second quarter after Buoniconti's interception of a Bill Kilmer pass.

And, to cap the day, the last of Griese's eight completions in 11 attempts was a "quick-out" sideline shot of 11 yards to Warfield for a key, time-killing first down late in the game.

Expected run

"You have to believe they expected us to run," said Warfield in the relatively subdued Miami dressing quarters. "But we were going to play as if there were no tomorrow."

Griese also said his first half of passing when he was six for six, excluding a couple of efforts wiped out by penalties, "loosened up the Washington defense."

"We were throwing when they expected us to run. They were thinking, 'My responsibility against the run is here but my pass responsibility is back there.' It made 'em start thinking about what they had to do."

Over in the Washington dressing room, Coach George Allen said Miami "deserved to win. They... played better football today."

Allen grumbled about two first-half plays which he felt cost Washington the ball game.

"The biggest play of the first half was when we failed to recover the fumbled punt," said Allen, referring to a bobble by Miami's Jake Scott which was recovered by teammate Dick Anderson after a Redskin had a good shot at the ball.

"Another one which hurt us was the ruling against Harold McLinton for slapping the ball. Their center winds up and Harold slapped the ball. We felt the Miami center picked up the ball. The officials ruled it our ball until one of them informed the referee about the penalty."

McLinton's action forced a fumble at the Miami 27 but Washington was called for encroachment.

Not surprised

Allen said his team was not surprised by Griese's first-half passing. "With Griese in there, we anticipated it. They did just about everything we had anticipated."

Griese said his touchdown pass to Twilley capitalized on man-for-man coverage.

"Warfield had double coverage so Twilley had single coverage with Pat Fischer. He just went down and beat him."

Shula, refusing to compare his unprecedented 17-0 NFL Dolphins with "other teams and other times," said:

"This is the greatest team I have been associated with. It is hard to compare it with other teams in the past. This team has gone into an area that no one has ever gone before. It went undefeated and won it at the end, and they have to be given credit for their achievement."

Natural approach

If the Dolphins had lost — as they did 24-3 to Dallas in Super Bowl VI — Shula said "there would be a few who say this football team couldn't win the big one. We approached it in a natural way — no remembering the Gipper speeches — just something we wanted done."

The Miami defense did not surrender

a point, and there was joking afterward about the bizarre play that gave Washington its touchdown in the fourth quarter. Garo Yepremian's attempted 42-yard field goal was blocked and the ball bounded back to him. He tried to throw the ball but "my mind went blank," Garo said. "I didn't know what I was going to do. It slipped out of my hand."

Defensive back Mike Bass grabbed the ball out of the air, racing 49 yards for the score.

"I've got to work with Garo on his technique of throwing," laughed Griese. "I told him we'll work on that in the offseason. Is he left-handed? I don't even think he can throw. But he can kick."

Kilmer, who completed 14 of 28 passes but was intercepted three times, said, "I simply did not throw that well today. I wasn't sharp, but you know Miami has as good a pass defense as we played against all year, probably the best. Still, I think if I had thrown well we would have beaten them."

Larry Csonka, who gained 112 yards in 15 carries — nine yards shy of the Super Bowl record, was exhausted.

"I just want to go to sleep," the rugged fullback said. "We maintained the lead all the way but it was like a tightrope walk."

Rangers triumph

Esposito's 4 goals lift Bruins

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Phil Esposito is not particular about how many players there are on the ice when he goes to work. Just give him a stick, a National Hockey League puck and a goalie and he does his thing.

Esposito exploded for four goals Sunday night—two of them with Boston shorthanded, another on a power play, and the other with both teams at equal strength—as the Bruins battered the Buffalo Sabres 6-0.

In other NHL action Sunday, New York downed Philadelphia 5-2, Montreal shut out Vancouver 3-0, St. Louis nipped the New York Islanders 2-1, Detroit shaded Pittsburgh 3-2, Atlanta tripped Los Angeles 4-1 and California and Chicago battled to a 6-6 tie.

In the World Hockey Association Sunday, Minnesota defeated Ottawa 3-2 and Winnipeg downed Cleveland 3-1.

Esposito, who leads active NHL players with 18 career three-goal games, started his big night with a power play goal. His second came while he was out killing a Boston penalty, his third came with both sides even and the fourth in another shorthanded situation.

It was the second four-goal game of his career. The defending scoring champion also assisted on a goal by Johnny Bucyk.

Goalie Eddie Johnston had an easy night, blocking just 20 shots for his fourth shutout of the season.

Rookie goalie Wayne Thomas, making his first NHL start, backstopped Montreal to its shutout against Vancouver. The Mahovich Brothers, Frank and Pete, and Jacques Lemaire provided the goals for the Canadiens, leaders in the NHL East.

Thomas, filling in for Ken Dryden, sidelined with a bad back and Michel Plasse, battling the flu, blocked 20 shots for the shutout.

Vic Hadfield fired two goals, leading the Rangers past Philadelphia and keeping New York one point back of second place Boston and four behind Montreal in the tight East race.

Streaking Detroit won its fifth straight game and stretched its unbeaten streak to eight games by nipping Pittsburgh on a disputed goal by Tim Ecclestone.

Goalie Jim Rutherford swept Ecclestone's third period shot out of the net but not before the red light had gone on and the referee ruled that the puck crossed the goal line, giving the Wings the win.

Amazing Atlanta took over second place in the West by whipping Los Angeles. The victory moved the first-year expansion club over the .500 mark for the season and gave the Flames seven victories and one tie in the last nine games.

Jim Pappin and Dennis Hull had two goals apiece for Chicago but Walt McKechnie's goal with 5½ minutes left to play gave California its tie against the Black Hawks.

Beloit drops 83-71 decision to St. Olaf

NORTHFIELD, Minn. (AP)—St. Olaf defeated Beloit 83-71 in Midwest Conference basketball Saturday, despite the visitors' advantage in rebounding.

Dan Halvorsen of St. Olaf, a 6-5 senior from Owatonna, led all scorers with 22 points. St. Olaf pulled away throughout the game with a 51 per cent shooting performance, although Beloit won the rebound statistics 42-35.

Beloit scoring was led by Scott Morrissey with 14.

It was St. Olaf's first win in conference play and Beloit's first loss, leaving both at 1-1. Overall records are St. Olaf 4-5, Beloit 6-3.

EM athletes disqualified after Anthem incident

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The scene had overtones of the 1972 Olympic Games at Munich when U.S. track medal winners Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett did not stand at attention during the playing of the National Anthem at the medals ceremony.

This time, it was not international competition, but the Knights of Columbus Indoor Meet at the Nassau Coliseum. The athletes were not Olympians, but from Eastern Michigan, and the incident did not occur at an awards ceremony, but during the playing of the Anthem, prior to the mile race—one of the late events on Saturday night's program.

The Eastern Michigan mile relay team, scheduled to run in the final event, was in the infield of the track as The Star Spangled Banner was being sung. Instead of standing, some members of the group which included three blacks—Carlos Woods, Willie Sims and Stan Vinson—and one white—Mark Timmons—remained slouched on the floor, disdaining the flag.

"I don't know what they were doing, but they weren't protesting," insisted Eastern Michigan Coach Bob Parks.

The crowd of 8,551 did not agree with Parks' interpretation, nor with the athletes' stand—or lack of it—and booed them lustily.

Even some athletes who had competed earlier and had taken seats in the stands, disagreed with the apparent protest by the Eastern Michigan runners.

"Get those Commies out of here," shouted a group of athletes.

The Games Committee didn't kindly to the action by the Eastern Michigan athletes, and disqualified them from the relay. One meet official said that the timers and judges had agreed to walk off the track if the Eastern Michigan team was permitted to compete.

"They should not have been thrown out," said Parks. "They're really good kids. They won't do it in the future."

The Eastern Michigan runners were recipients of further booing when Woods, Sims and Vinson jogged around the track and the infield with clenched fists and Timmons trotted in the infield prior to the running of the relay.

"They were disqualified because of their disrespectful conduct toward the American flag and their personal rebuke to the people at the Coliseum as expressed by their actions," said Jim Foley, meet director.

Carlton reportedly to sign $165,000 pact

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Star Philadelphia Phillies' left-hander Steve Carlton will sign a contract next week establishing him as baseball's highest-paid pitcher, the St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported Saturday.

Baseball writer Jack Herman said Carlton, who last season posted a 27-10 record for the Phils and won the Cy Young Award, will sign a contract calling for $165,000.

The St. Louis Cardinals' Bob Gibson, whose salary is $150,000, is currently considered the highest paid in his trade. Carlton, who was traded by the Cards to the Phils last February, led the National League in eight pitching categories. He had a 1.98 earned run average and 310 strikeouts.

Pius deals Marquette High 1st setback

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukee Pius, beaten by Milwaukee Marquette in the Wisconsin independent high schools' basketball tournament finals last March, has achieved decisive revenge.

Pius held Marquette to 37 per cent shooting, 18 percentage points below the Hilltoppers' season average, and shattered a 38 game winning streak for the state's top ranked team 48-34 Saturday night.

"I don't think one kid made a mistake on defense," Pius Coach Joe Buneta said. "I think they were a little confused by our switching defenses. I've been waiting for this baby since last March."

Marquette, which had won its first 12 games this season, slipped into a first place tie in the Milwaukee Catholic Conference with Racine St. Catherine, 62-30 winner over Sturtevant St. Bonaventure. St. Catherine was ranked sixth last week in the season's first Associated Press poll of state prep teams.

Second ranked Milwaukee Lincoln, upset by Milwaukee Tech Friday night, recovered for a 74-59 victory over Milwaukee West behind Jeff Trammel's 21 points.

Third ranked Milwaukee Madison retained its Milwaukee City lead, whipping Milwaukee Washington 75-55. Waukesha, tied for third in the poll, pressured Shorewood into 34 turnovers and coasted 102-65.

Eighth ranked Wisconsin Rapids Assumption stopped Marshfield Columbus 73-55, while 10th ranked Manitowoc edged Fond du Lac, one of its top challengers in the Fox River Valley Conference, 47-44.

McFarland, the state's second ranked small school, ran its record to 12-0 by defeating Lodi 68-42.

Sixth ranked small school Waterloo buried Wisconsin Heights 90-44 and Monticello, No. 8, downed Madison Holy Name 61-53.

West spurs Los Angeles

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One thing about Jerry West: He never acts his age. Another thing: The Los Angeles Lakers are mighty glad of it.

"I don't see West slowing down one bit," says Herm Gilliam of the Atlanta Hawks. "There's no sign at all that he is."

Gilliam got to see the Lakers' "old man" first-hand Sunday, and the 34-year-old West looked as good as ever in leading a 102-100 National Basketball Association victory over the Hawks.

West took the momentum away from Atlanta in the waning minutes when he stole the ball from Pete Maravich. West later got a basket on a goaltending call to break it open.

"I try to contribute what I can," said West. "Maravich has a tendency to put the ball out front. I just happened to reach for it at the right time."

In the other NBA games, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the Chicago Bulls 100-95; the Baltimore Bullets dropped the Phoenix Suns 95-94 and the New York Knicks tripped the Seattle SuperSonics 86-84.

In the American Basketball Association, the Carolina Cougars turned back the Memphis Tams 104-100 and the Kentucky Colonels nipped the San Diego Conquistadors 100-97.

ABA: Indiana 108, San Diego 107 and Utah 105, Kentucky 96.

Before West took over, Atlanta held a 95-94 lead and had possession of the ball. By the time West was finished, it was 99-94 Los Angeles.

"When West does finally leave, the Lakers just won't be the same team," added Gilliam.

Mike Riordan made four timely field goals in the fourth quarter to help Baltimore's cause. A last-second field goal by Phoenix tipped out of the basket.

Billy Cunningham and Mack Calvin took control in the final minute and gave Carolina a comeback victory over Memphis Louis Dampier hit a shot with 24 seconds remaining to lead Kentucky over San Diego

Murphy blasts 267-659

Penguin coach fired

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Leonard "Red" Kelly was fired today as coach of the Pittsburgh Penguins of the National Hockey League.

Kelly, who came here in 1969 after a 19-year career as a player and a two-year stint as coach at Los Angeles, will be replaced by veteran right wing Ken Schinkel, the Penguins said.

Clean air appeal in high court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to review a lower court order forbidding pollution of clean air.

The high court in a brief order without dissent agreed to hear the government's appeal of a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court here requiring federal enforcement of a policy of "nondegradation" of clean air.

In other action today, the Court agreed to consider a New York law that requires people who receive federal welfare aid to register with the state for work; to rule on the proposed consolidation of the mostly black schools at Richmond, Va., with two adjoining white suburban systems, and to consider the plea of 72-year-old philosophy Prof. Paul Weiss that Fordham University had discriminated against him solely on the basis of age.

The Environmental Protection Agency was poised in November to reluctantly issue regulations to comply with the decision when the high court blocked its effect pending appeal.

Environmentalists set out to protect those areas with air cleaner than that required by federal standards, but the government claimed the effect will be to hamper economic development and make the task of lessening pollution elsewhere more difficult.

Under the Clean Air Amendments of 1970, EPA has established air quality standards setting limits on the permissible levels of pollutants.

One set of standards, designed to protect human health, must be achieved by 1975. No time limit has been set on a second, more stringent set of standards to protect animals, plants, property and the environment.

"States should have the option of expanding economic development into under developed areas, so long as federal primary and secondary standards are not exceeded," the government argued.

Four environment groups sued Ruckelshaus last May, contending the law's stated purpose to "protect and enhance" air quality means air quality must not be degraded.

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon ordered a halt Monday to all offensive military operations in North Vietnam "because of the progress made" in Paris peace talks, the Florida White House said.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon's order took effect at 10 a.m. EST and includes "bombing, shelling and any further mining of North Vietnam."

The White House spokesman described the move as "a unilateral gesture" that followed an exhaustive presidential assessment of the negotiations.

Ziegler refused to discuss reports that Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's peace negotiator, and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho have, for all practical purposes, already reached an accord.

He did say in response to a question: "Dr. Kissinger will be returning to Paris at some point in the relatively near future."

Asked if North Vietnam had agreed to scale down its military operations in South Vietnam in return for Nixon's military concession, Ziegler said the White House had no information to indicate any change in Hanoi's military strategy.

"This action was not an element of the negotiations," he said.

Ziegler did say Hanoi was aware that progress in the Paris talks could lead to a U.S. move of the type he announced.

Nixon and Kissinger conferred for an hour and a half Monday morning at the President's bedside office here. It was their fourth meeting in two days since Kissinger flew here from Paris early Sunday morning.

Ziegler said Nixon transmitted the order to halt military operations in North Vietnam late Sunday night following one of his discussions with Kissinger.

Asked if any move would be made to deactivate mines already placed along the North Vietnamese coast, he said those weapons "will remain in place" and be discussed in future Paris talks.

Asked if Nixon was hopeful that a peace agreement could be announced by Inauguration Day—Saturday—Ziegler replied, "we have no artificial timetable." He said the objective all along has been to end the war at the earliest possible date.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was fully informed in advance about Nixon's decision, Ziegler added.

The President has dispatched Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., to Saigon to consult with Thieu about the Paris talks. Haig had a lengthy talk with Nixon and Kissinger prior to his departure.

Haig flew off to Saigon at Nixon's behest Sunday night following Kissinger's return from six days of peace negotiations in Paris that the President's foreign policy aide described as "very extensive and very useful."

Ziegler said Haig would "discuss the current status of negotiations with President Thieu" and with leaders of Thailand, Laos and Cambodia.

Haig made the same circuit just before Christmas, after the Paris talks were temporarily broken off and the United States launched the heaviest bombing raids of the war against Hanoi and Haiphong. The raids in that section of North Vietnam have been suspended while a renewed search for peace continued.

Ziegler said he could not say when Kissinger might return to Paris to resume apparently crucial talks with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho. The presidential spokesman declined to say anything substantive about the negotiations.

There was no word on when Nixon, who flew here Friday, would return to Washington.

Cease-fire possible this week, CBS says

NEW YORK (AP) — A CBS television reporter said today that "highly reliable palace sources in Saigon" expect all parties concerned in the Vietnam war to sign an agreement on a cease-fire "as early as this week."

Richard Wagner, the network's Saigon correspondent, also said the sources told him that South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu will accept the agreement "after making a few superficial changes to suggest that he took an active part in the drafting of the accords."

Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., President Nixon's representative now en route to Saigon, was said to be carrying an updated version of a draft agreement that Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, presented to Thieu on Saturday.

The draft agreement, Wagner said, contains two significant concessions from Hanoi — "tacit recognition" of the Saigon government and acceptance of a "temporary military and political demarcation line in Vietnam at the 17th Parallel."

Wagner said the word "temporary" was described by his sources as a face-saving measure for the North Vietnamese.

In addition, Wagner said in a report on the "CBS Morning News with John Hart," the sources told him that Hanoi has agreed to allow several thousand persons on the International Control Commission to supervise the cease-fire, rather than the few hundred it had previously insisted upon.

Nader joins fight for press information

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader's forces have joined the National Press Club in an effort to help news reporters gain access to information withheld by the government.

A Press Information Center is being organized by the press club and Nader's Center for Study of Responsive Law, an announcement said Sunday.

Protest in Europe

RDAM (AP) — Forty young even women protesting the war occupied the U.S. Congress for an hour and a half before riot police led them away.

A spokesman said they would withdraw by breach of the peace and could be released after questioning.

Demonstrators returning to Frankfurt from Bonn smashed windows of American, Spanish and Israeli airline offices and several banks in downtown Frankfurt.

The Frankfurt organization of Chancellor Willy Brandt's Social Democratic party called another Vietnam demonstration this afternoon.

The conference of international Socialist leaders in Paris issued an appeal Sunday for peace in Vietnam. Leaders from 18 countries also said they "deplore and regret" last month's bombing of Hanoi and Haiphong.

Premier Golda Meir of Israel attended the private sessions, and conference sources said she joined the general condemnation of the U.S. bombing.

2 Oshkosh girls killed in snowmobile pileup

OMRO — Two Oshkosh, girls, ages 7 and 12, died instantly Sunday of multiple skull fractures when the snowmobile they were riding slammed into a highway bridge near here, while traveling at an estimated speed of 50 m.p.h.

The victims were Cheryl Rogge, 7, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Rogge, 1372 Valley Road, and her cousin Elizabeth A. Mauritz, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mauritz, 934 Armory Place. They were the first snowmobile fatalities ever recorded in Winnebago County.

The accident occurred about 3:30 p.m. at the Springbrook Tavern, just east of Omro, when the youngsters left for a short ride after attending a snowmobile rally with their parents.

Winnebago Sheriff's authorities said the 7-year-old was driving, while her cousin who had been operating snowmobiles about four years, was giving her a lesson how to run the machine.

Witnesses said they were traveling south on Spring Brook at about 5 m.p.h. and were slowing down to stop before the bridge. The machine suddenly gained speed as the Rogge girl apparently mistook the throttle for the brake and panicked. The snowmobile hit the highway bridge, with a 30 inch clearance, head-on. The Rogge girl was thrown from the machine as it hit the bridge, and the Mauritz girl was thrown after it passed under it. Both victims were wearing helmets.

Elizabeth had recently completed a course on snowmobile safety, sponsored by the state Department of Natural Resources, authorities said.

Both of their fathers are snowmobile dealers and reportedly were very strict with their children about snowmobile safety precautions.

The bodies were taken to the Seefeld Funeral Home in Oshkosh where funeral arrangements are pending.

Their deaths, and the death of a Horicon man and rural Brussels youngster this weekend, raised to 18 the number of snowmobiling victims in the state this season.

Don Gilmore, 21, died Saturday night after he was thrown from his machine when it hit a snowbank on a town road about 16 miles northwest of Merrill.

Debra Engelbert, 13, was killed Sunday when the snowmobile she was on collided with a truck in Door County on State 57, south of Brussels.

New procedure could double gas prices

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Natural gas bills, which have already ballooned by a third or more during the past five years, are destined to swell even faster if producers take advantage of a new pricing procedure created by federal regulators.

As a measure of what the future could hold for consumers, three producers in the vital offshore Louisiana field have asked for an immediate 73-percent price increase and want further annual increases which would drive their prices to twice present levels within seven years.

Behind the new pricing procedure is a nationwide gas shortage. For the first time last year, the demand for natural gas exceeded the supply. Producers and the Federal Power Commission contend higher prices are necessary to lure untapped sources of gas onto the market.

The results for the price increases are the first major ones under the new FPC procedure called optional pricing.

These requests are crucial because the offshore Louisiana fields now account for a third of the nation's natural gas supply and the producers applying to the FPC for higher rates have promised other hikes will follow if the increases are granted.

Tenneco Oil, one of the applicants, said approval will indicate to the gas-producing industry that the FPC will allow new gas sales at rates "based on economic factors including the cost of alternatives."

The other applicants are Texaco and Beico Petroleum Co.

Opponents challenging optional pricing in the courts charge it is certain to produce windfall profits for producers. Such opponents as the American Public Gas Association have accused the FPC of failing to investigate whether the present gas shortage is an industry creation aimed at eliciting higher prices.

These assertions are denied by producers and the FPC.

Besides the gas association, a combine of municipal gas companies, the opponents include Consumers Union and 21 so-called Concerned Congressmen, headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif.

They call optional pricing an end run around the 1938 Natural Gas act, which originally was used to regulate only the prices charged by interstate gas pipelines. The FPC resisted regulating prices charged by producers at the wellhead until the Supreme Court ruled in 1954 that producers too, must be regulated.

The Louisiana applications seek modification of the standard which has been applied since then in setting prices.

Traditionally, the FPC has used the cost-plus formula used by other regulatory rate-setters. The commission computes how much it costs to produce the gas and adds what it considers a reasonable profit return of about 15 percent.

Elderly may join classes at lower fees

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The University of Wisconsin System can allow elderly persons to audit courses free on its campuses while charging fees of other auditors, its regents have been told by Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren.
Such a plan, proposed by the board, does not violate equal protection laws, Warren said in a formal legal opinion.
The regent policy, drafted last month, proposes to allow persons over the age of 65 to audit courses free while charging other persons half the in-state fee normally charged a person taking a course for credit.
The policy, proposed by the regents applies only to state residents, and was proposed following a survey which indicated that auditing possibilities are not being widely used throughout the state, particularly by older persons.
The financial impact on the policy on the system will be negligible, according to UW estimates.
Warren said that the new policy does not violate equal protection clauses by discriminating between classes of persons. The classification used has a reasonable basis and is tied to a valid state objective, and does not violate constitutional guarantees, he said.

Prenatal, infant classes offered at Oshkosh FVTI

OSHKOSH — Prenatal and infant care classes for teen and post-teen mothers are being offered here at Fox Valley Technical Institute and are planned for repeat sessions in May and June and again in October and November.
Developed through the cooperation of the Oshkosh Area Public Schools, community agencies, FVTI, and the County Mental Health Association, the classes are designed specifically for the unmarried and recently married teenager.
Sponsors said the series offers help to the expectant mother in understanding the physical changes, the emotional impact of pregnancy and labor and delivery.
As part of the series, individual counseling from social workers, school counselors and school and hospital nurses is provided to help plan for the future.
At least one class period will be devoted to a visit to Mercy Medical Center facilities.

Warmer winds coming

Modified Pacific air moving across the central part of the nation into the Great Lakes region will bring mostly westerly winds into the Fox Valley, producing warmer temperatures and the possibility of poor visibility, general fog and haze, according to United States Weather Bureau forecasters at Green Bay.
Skies will be fair to partly cloudy tonight with the temperature in the upper 20s. Tuesday will be fair to partly cloudy and a little warmer with the temperature in the upper 30s. Winds will be west at 6-12 m.p.h. tonight and into Tuesday.
The precipitation probability is 10 per cent tonight and 5 per cent Tuesday.
The high temperature was 31 in Appleton on Sunday and the overnight low was 27, according to the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

At 9:30 a.m., the barometer was 30.20 and rising. Wind was west at 6 m.p.h. and the humidity was 89 per cent. The dew point was 28 and skies were overcast. 1.3 inches of snow fell Sunday, equalling .07 inch in water.
Hilbert and Waussau each recorded 23 as the coldest spots in the state Sunday. The high was 38 at La Crosse.

UW to name physician to health sciences post

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Dr. Robert E. Cooke will be nominated to fill the post of vice chancellor for health sciences at the University of Wisconsin which has been vacant since it was created two years ago, the system's president said Friday.
John Weaver said he would present the name of Cooke, who heads the Department of Pediatrics at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, to the Board of Regents at its meeting next Friday.
Cooke, now on leave from John Hopkins, is a visiting professor of preventive and social medicine at Harvard University.

Progress against drugs

BY CAROL DIEHL
Post-Crescent Correspondent

MANAWA — Talk about it! Communicate! Love and understanding! Involvement! Trust and honesty! Responsibility and self-reliance! Being yourself!

Words? How about the Drug Education Program, Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, a special project stemming from Cooperative Educational Service Agency 8. The project is in its third year of operation in six communities: Clintonville, Hortonville, Kimberly, Manawa, Neenah and Winneconne.

The project goal is not to totally eradicate drugs, alcohol and tobacco. "Such a goal would be naive and unrealistic," said Carl Strassburg, project director of the CESA program. The goals are rather "To develop instructional strategies to facilitate sound mental health practices on the part of students and teachers in increased qualities of self-esteem and positive self-regard, to expand and clarify the ability to establish sound values and to teach a valid process for sound decision making."

Today, teachers and administrators in the six communities are being exposed to the technical aspects of the curriculum that has been developed and also the teaching strategies that will help young people in particular and people in general learn how to face their lives without the need for chemical crutches. The curriculum guide has been prepared for the six communities by teacher participants who have worked together in after school sessions and Saturday workshops for 186 hours.

Three full-time drug consultants have worked with teachers and students in the participating school districts. The inservice programs are the final step in the project.

"Drug Education to us is a little bit of content and a maximum amount of teaching and instructional strategies that employ sound mental health programs," said Strassburg. "Peoples' temptation to alter the way they feel about themselves is directed

Bonds to finance Brillion job sold

BY JANICE JOHNSON
Post-Crescent Correspondent

BRILLION — Bonds totaling $1 million were sold last week to the LaSalle National Bank, Chicago, to finance a new gymnasium addition to the school and finish the basement of the 1968 addition.

The firm was low bidder with a 4.18 per cent interest rate. Total interest on the bonds over the 10 year debt period will be $262,597.24.

Ten other bids were received with interest ranging from 4.20 to 4.38 per cent.

The rate accepted was .1 per cent lower than the rate secured by the district on sale of $750,000 in bonds for financing the 1968 addition.

The favorable interest rate, according to authorities, is attributed to the A-1 bond rating of the district and to the economic stability and good financial standing of business, industry and agriculture.

The district also has financial indebtedness far lower than the legal limit of $4 million. Actual indebtedness including the new bond issue is $1,609,000.

The long range planning in 1968 when $4 per $1,000 of equalized value was levied for debt service and renewed each year since, means the building program can be undertaken and the $4 per $1,000 levy still maintained.

Construction is expected to get underway next spring. In addition to the gym, the expansion will consist of a cafeteria, kitchen, locker rooms, laundry and additional classroom space.

Total cost for the project will be $1,190,000 plus legal and financial fees of $10,000. Funds on hand total approximately $200,000 and a $22,000 surplus exists from bond issue for the 1968 addition. Investment earnings have totaled $40,000. Seegar Swanson of Ehlers & Associates, financial consultants, credits the pre-planning with saving the district $181,000 in interest expense.

A question was raised by Ed Barth, a member of the board, on Monday as to why the board had not been notified that the bond sale had been changed from Dec. 18 to Jan. 10. He further contended that the original resolution passed in November to hold the bond sale had been deleted from the minutes. He said the board should have made the decision on the time of sale and not merely been informed. He claimed he had no previous knowledge of the sale prior to Jan. 8.

Bob Endries supported the superintendent, contending the board had authorized the school's financial consultants to handle the sale at the time they deemed best.

The superintendent explained that the bond sale resolution papers acted as a portion of the minutes of the meeting and did not constitute a deletion. He further added that all board members were notified of the decision to move the sale date by a letter mailed on Dec. 8.

The financial consultants confirmed Wednesday that there was no legal requirement or need for the board to have taken any action on changing the date of the sale.

The rest of the board agreed that the date change had been made in the best interests of the district and also acknowledged receipt of a letter of intent to do so.

Chilton bank re-elects all its directors

CHILTON — All the directors and officers of the Commercial Bank were re-elected at the annual stockholders' and directors' meetings last week.

Directors re-elected are Gordon Aebischer, Gervase Hephner, Arthur W. Hugo, James W. Pfeffer and Samuel C. Kingston. August E. Hingiss and Bert Ketter were elected honorary directors.

Hugo was re-elected president and Aebischer vice president. Also re-elected were Richard M. Hackbarth, cashier, and Dorothy Paulsen and Ruby Pohland, assistant cashiers.

Hugo reported that the total resources of the bank on Dec. 31, 1972, reached $11,952,080, an increase of $1,289,437 over the previous year's total.

Loans showed an increase of $625,451 for a new total of $6,210,357. Deposits increased by $1,210,771 for a new high of $11,115,566.

During the year, $80,000 was transferred from the Undivided Profits Account to the Surplus Account, increasing the loan limit for customers.

Incumbent aldermen circulate nomination papers at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Three incumbents are the only candidates that have taken out nomination papers for aldermanic posts in the city's five wards.

Circulating papers are Donald Krueger, 3rd Ward; Kenneth Suehring, 4th Ward, and Fred Hangartner, 5th Ward.

Terms of Leon Steenbock, 1st Ward, and Robert Kitzman, 2nd Ward, also expire.

Deadline for filing nomination papers is 5 p.m. Jan. 30 at the office of the city clerk.

Indigents counsel increases

WAUPACA — Forty persons who were charged in Waupaca County courts during 1972, declared that they were not able to hire their own attorneys and attorneys were appointed to represent them.

According to a report from the clerk of Circuit Court and County Court, the county spent $4,398 in 1972 on attorney fees for indigent defendants.

The number of indigent cases was higher in 1972 than in previous years, because since June the law has guaranteed legal counsel for those who are charged with misdemeanors as well as those accused of felonies. In 1972 attorneys were appointed in 21 misdemeanor cases and 19 felony cases.

The clerk of courts office however, collected $1,529, or about 32 per cent of the amount paid by the county, from the defendants. This, too, is higher than in any previous year.

The choice of counsel is made by the presiding judge.

Attorneys appointed by the court in 1972 included: DeLyle O. Onholt, Iola; James Lingren and Ormond W. Capener, New London; Clifford C. Mullarkey, Clintonville; Laurie Anderson, Johnson and Hansen, Richard E. Peterson and Edward J. Hart, Waupaca and David Werth, Weyauwega.

Bank shows big increase at Waupaca

WAUPACA — Growth and continuing effort to bring the best in banking services to Waupaca and vicinity was reported last week by R.M. Danielson, president of Farmers State Bank, to the stockholders.

At its 62nd annual stockholders meeting Danielson reported that the total assets of the institution as of Dec. 31, were $14.8 million, an increase of more than $2 million over 1971.

The new total of mortgages and loans stood at $7.9 million, an increase of $1.2 million.

An extra dividend was paid all stockholders of record on Dec. 15.

A transfer of $150,000 from undivided profits was transferred to surplus. Depositors were paid a total of $2,822 in interest during the past year.

Edward J. Hart was re-elected chairman of the board. Returned to directorships were Danielson, Ira A. Christoph, L.C. Virchow, Fred A. Rawson, John C. Cormican and Dr. John H. Steiner.

Danielson continues as president. Fred A. Rawson is senior vice president; Francis J. Vergaunen, vice president; William C. Curtis, cashier; Lois M. Thompson, assistant cashier and John T. Post, manager of time credit department.

School closes for in-service day at Chilton

CHILTON — Classes will be dismissed at the public schools on Friday so that the teaching staffs can participate in a variety of inservice programs.

Teachers in kindergarten through grade 6 will attend a session conducted by the California Dairy Council to help them prepare individual lesson plans in nutrition. The program is a followup of one conducted last fall.

Teachers in grades 7-12 will receive instructional activities in self-monitoring and on teaching reading.

The self-monitoring project aims at helping teachers to individualize learning for students and to stimulate interpersonal relationships among both pupils and teachers. The program director is Gerald DeAmico of Sheboygan public schools.

The reading program will be directed by Dr. Karl Hesse, coordinator of language arts and reading program for Madison public schools.

In the program, teachers will focus on various reading materials and the problems students have comprehending the materials.

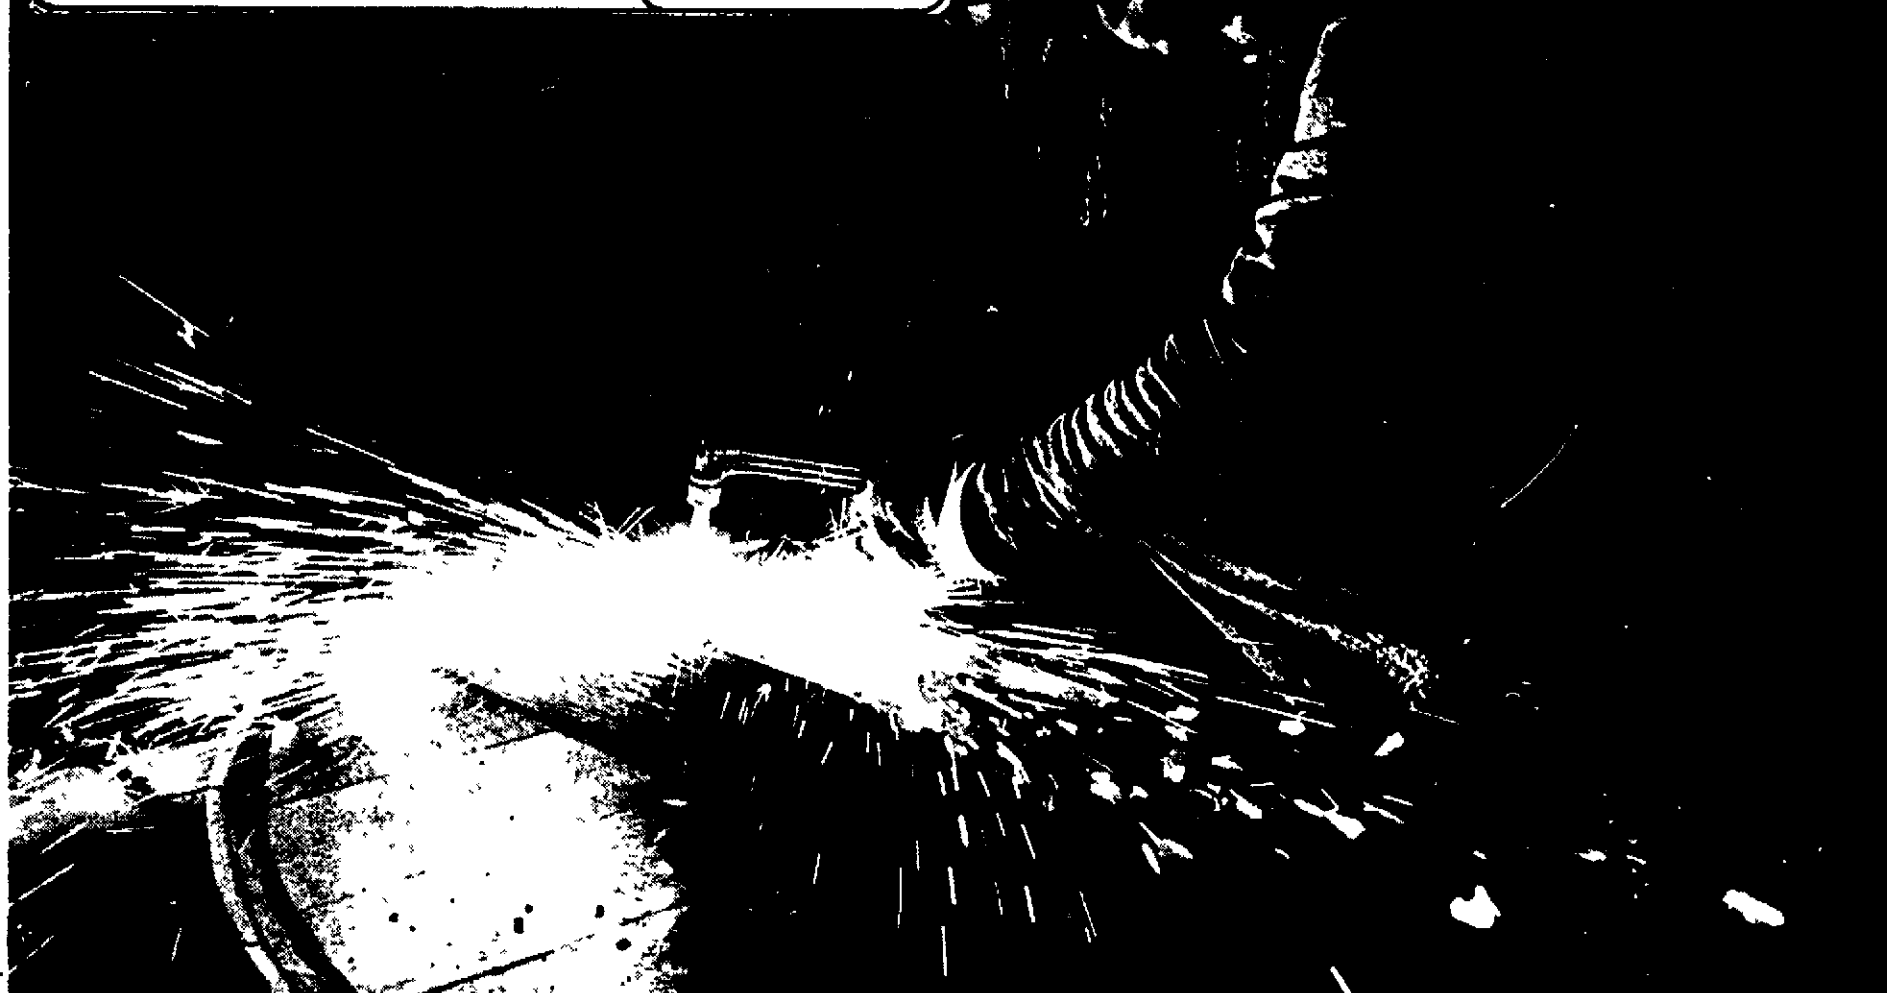

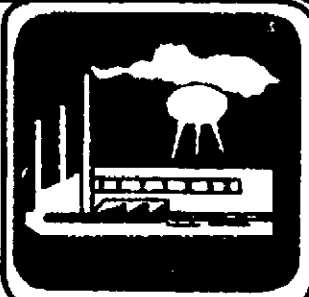

Rate hike sought

End of the brewery

Moses Williams, a workman for Canton Wood Products Co., Canton, Ohio, uses a welding torch to cut the metal bolts holding together the staves of the giant wooden tanks that the Geo. Walter Brewing Co. used for fermenting and aging its beer in the now-closed brewery's heyday. The tanks were removed stove by stove through windows of the brewery and will be reconstructed and refurbished for resale to wineries or pickle factories. (Post-Crescent photos by Tom Running)

The heart of the old George Walter Brewing Co. is gone.

The old wooden tanks used for aging and fermenting beer in the heyday of the now-closed brewery have been removed by workmen from Canton Wood Products Co., Canton, Ohio, for refurbishing and resale to pickle factories and wineries.

The wooden tanks, some dating back to pre Prohibition days, were considered "so important" by the old brewmasters, said Roland Marx, who had been general manager of the brewery before it closed last spring. In recent years, metal tanks had replaced them.

The giant tanks, made of oak, cyprus and redwood, were removed "stave by stave through the window" by workmen from the Ohio company, he said. The last of the 11 wooden tanks was removed Thursday.

The tanks, a full 2.5 inches thick, ranged from a capacity of 70 to 200 barrels of beer. The newest ones dated back to 1938, and some of the older ones had been refurbished in 1933, Marx said.

The brewery had kept water in them since it closed to prevent them from drying out.

Canton Wood Products also purchased 22 tanks from West Bend Lithia, another small brewery which closed last fall. Those tanks also were removed recently.

Marx is one of three people on a special committee named by the old Geo. Walter Brewing stockholders to sell the equipment of the brewery before the building is sold or razed. The other members are Walter Kottke, a stockholder, and Henry Rossmelss, president of the firm.

The brewery stopped production of Adler Brau and other products last March because of declining beer sales. A group of Appleton and Eau Claire persons, headed by George M. Walter, president of Walter Brewing Co., Eau Claire, took over the Appleton brewery last March 21 for distribution of Walter's Beer out of the Appleton facility.

Marx said the three-man committee had been selling other equipment in the brewery, including that for bottling and canning, compressors and labelers. Much has been purchased by Brewers and Bottlers Equipment Co., Tampa, Fla., where Kottke is today negotiating on more purchases.

He said the committee still is attempting to sell the 11-year-old brewery property, located at Walnut and Lawrence Streets. The city has taken an option on the property for a police station, scheduled to run out in March. The lot includes over 61,000 square feet.

If the building isn't sold, it will be razed by the company, Marx said, probably when the weather warms up. The city also would raze it.

Beer? No tanks

Improved highway safety is goal

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent staff writer

WAUPACA — Steps to improve safety on all highways in Waupaca County were considered as the County Commission on Highway Safety took a close look at the mounting number of traffic accidents this past year, the third year with 19 fatalities and some of the causes.

A number of concerns surfaced. Should a doctor be at the scene of an accident to pronounce the fatally injured dead? Should a doctor be at the scene to attend the injured? Should the coroner be at serious accidents to take charge? Is the drinking driver the No. 1 offender on the highway? How can the drinking driver be removed from our highways? Is jail the place for the alcoholic and other drug user?

Capt. Jack Penney raised a number of these questions in his report. "In 19 of the fatal accidents which occurred last year, the coroner was present in two instances," Penney said. "The victims were pronounced dead upon arrival at an area hospital or at a funeral home. I believe there is a statute which requires that a coroner take charge at all personal injury accidents; I know they do this in other counties."

"The officers in our department have first aid training, and within limits there are steps we can take, but I know that I would feel better if there was a doctor on the scene," the captain said. "Our men have their hands full at an accident, they know what they have to do, and we do our best — the people involved. But the question lingers too often in our minds: Could we have done more?"

Dr. Joseph W. Weber, New London physician, and commission member, brought the issue into direct focus. "You are talking about two things here: Are you asking to have a doctor at the scene to pronounce a person dead, or are you asking to have a doctor at the scene to take care of the seriously injured?"

"I have been under the impression that the coroner was always at the scene and, if not, I think we should find out why not," he said. "In the matter of the seriously injured, let me say that I can do more for the injured person in the hospital than I could ever do out in the field. A better answer will be fully trained paramedic team, with fully equipped ambulance, responding to the call, taking care of the injured at the scene and en route to the hospital. Statistics show that this is the more successful method."

"I do not know what is being done in other areas of the county, but New London now has in progress a program which will give a six-month paramedic training course for ambulance attendants and the ambulance will be fully equipped to handle emergencies like those we are talking about."

A report on what is being done and/or planned in Clintonville, Waupaca and other areas in the counties to provide emergency medical service will be given at the next quarterly meeting.

Dr. Weber said he would take the questions of the coroner and physician at accident scenes to the Waupaca County Medical Society meeting next week. "I am certain we can come up with some answers," he said. At present all physicians in Waupaca County are deputy coroners and Dr. Sam Salan is the elected county coroner.

"The question reduces itself to what is best for the injured person," Sheriff Loran Frazier said. "Experience teaches many of us how to determine whether a person is living or dead, but the official word is not ours — it's the state's. The answer may be in better training, better equipment, which the state can provide and is already in operation in the Madison and Milwaukee areas. We need it here as soon as we can get it."

"Eleven vehicles were involved in last year's 17 fatal accidents (two of the 19 were pedestrians) and five of the drivers had been drinking," Penney said. "Of the 804 accidents, up 100 from the 1971 total, I would say that more than 50 per cent of the drivers had been drinking."

The initial judgment of whether or not a driver has been drinking, is made by the traffic officer, Penney explained. "If he believes the driver is intoxicated, he must arrest him for driving while intoxicated and then take him in for a breathalyzer test. If the test shows that he has an alcohol level below .15 (the intoxication minimum level set by this state) it then becomes necessary to cite the driver on a lesser charge."

"Driving while intoxicated" carries stiff penalties. "Driver had been drinking" is a judgment matter and charges vary. The sheriff pointed out that as little as two beers may make one person incapable of making safe judgments, but asked, "What can you do about it?"

Answers are being sought, locally and statewide, as to how to keep the drinking driver from behind the wheel. Are there some answers?

The sheriff was asked, "Is jail the place for the alcoholic and drug abuser?" "No," Frazier answered. "But where do we put them?" Dr. Weber said there is no place for taking care of them in his area, and it was generally conceded that the county is not equipped to handle the problem.

Turn cardboard into comic strip turntable

A comic strip turntable is fun to make for a party. It consists of a square of cardboard or corrugated paper board with a series of comic use. The collection can become quite impressive if enough comic strips panels are collected and enough cardboards of the proper size are rounded up.

Biggest according to Guinness

Strong Chimpanzees: Chimpanzees are stronger than men or any primates. A 165-lb. male named Boma recorded a right-hand pull (feet braced) of 847 lbs. on a dynamometer at the Bronx Zoo. On another occasion a female at the same zoo (weight 135 lbs.) registered 1,260 lbs. while in a rage. The best a man of the same weight can do is about 210 lbs.

Rarest Dog: The Chinese crested dog population is getting smaller all the time. Now there are only 55 to 60 in the world, and the breed is extinct in China. Still the rarest, though its population has grown from 40 to 52 in 1971, is the lion dog, originally from Germany.

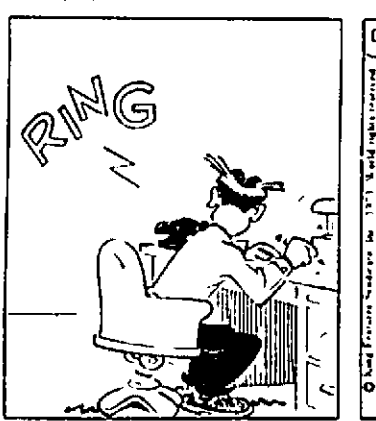

Most Children: The living mother with the most children is an Italian woman who was married at 17, is now 43, and has so far had 32 children -- two sets of quadruplets, one of triplets, one of twins, and 19 single births. Only 15 of the 32 survive. Her name is Maria Adolorata Casalina di Brindisi. The world record of 69 children was set by a Russian woman who died in 1872 (Copyright, 1973) strip panels pasted on it, four or more frames to each side. The cardboard is placed on a card table (figure one). Party guests sit around the table and as they read the sequences displayed, the cardboard is turned (figure two). After it has been turned four times, each guest will have seen the four sequences of the strip. The cardboard may then be turned over, bringing into view four additional panels that have been pasted to the other side. Several displays can be prepared ahead of time so that when a tableful of guests have looked at both sides of one turntable, another turntable can be brought into use. The turntables will be easy to store in a closet for future

Fun at a party

Try 'Bighorn!' without sound

By JAY SHARBUTT
NEW YORK (AP) — A beautifully photographed special about the endangered bighorn sheep of North America starts appearing this week on various television stations in major U.S. cities. It's called "Bighorn!" lasts an hour, is part of General Electric's Monogram series and features singer-composer John Denver, who has six albums and several hit records to his credit. It will be seen on WFRV-TV, Channel 5, Wednesday (6:30-7:30 p.m.). The sights alone might make you determined to do battle with the army of yahoos who mess up the wilderness each year with pop-top cans, transistor radios and all the other bilge of civilization. For that reason, it might be safe to watch "Bighorn" for 15 minutes to get the drift of things, then turn off the sound and let the beauty of the animals and the Canadian Rockies sink in. Denver is a guy who sings at the drop of a guitar pick, which is okay in coffee houses and recording studios. He also is a dedicated environmentalist, which is better.

But when he takes his guitar into the wilderness as part of a study of the proud bighorn sheep, he winds up making the sheep share the bill with his new album, "Rocky Mountain High." A saving factor in the show is his guide, a former Vancouver policeman named Tommy Tompkins, who turned his back on big city life a number of years ago to take up life in the wilds. Tompkins comes across as a quiet, knowledgeable man, the sort of bush guide who speaks low so as not to disturb the animals — or, for that matter, the beauty of the Rockies. I wish he had done the entire show. He might have limited the musical accompaniment to the opening and closing parts and let us hear the sound of the Rockies the rest of the time.

There is something faintly sacrilegious about hearing a pop singer and a full-scale orchestra roaring away as the two men tramp through forest snow in the cold blue twilight of winter. I'd rather hear the snow crackle underfoot. There are parts when the music goes off and we hear the awe-inspiring sound of two bighorn sheep banging heads during the mating season. But moments

Crooner's not a dog, dog's not a crooner

JUAZEIRO DO NORTE, Brazil (AP) — Crooner Waldick Soriano has a song line that goes, "I'm not a dog." During an outdoor concert, a dog walked on stage wearing a sign that read, "I'm not Waldick Soriano," news reports said. Soriano was not amused, and insulted the audience. A brawl ensued and the singer fled to his hotel.

TUZLA, Yugoslavia (AP) — The youth organization here complained that a shoe factory was selling boots with U.S. military insignia at a time when "the world public is expressing solidarity with the suffering people of Vietnam." President Tito also has condemned the fashion, and adjustments in the boots were expected.

like these are all too few. The program covers all four seasons and primarily was filmed in Canada's Jasper National Park and in Wyoming. It's a good look, both at an endangered species and at the larger question of preserving one of North America's last frontiers.

But Denver, who gets off to a good start as an enthusiastic observer-narrator on the trip through the high country, loses me at about the point he and Tompkins arrive in grizzly bear territory.

He informs all that he hopes to see a grizzly bear. Then he says this has inspired him to compose a song, right on the spot, called "How do you Say Hello to a Grizzly Bear?"

Whereupon he plops down near a river bend, whips out his guitar and lets fly with the new tune.

I wish the bears had been inspired to write a song called "How Do You Say Hello to a Strumming Explorer," but that only happens in Walt Disney movies.

Archeologists find King Darius statue

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — French and Iranian archeologists claimed recently to have found a stone statue of King Darius of the Achaemenid period, bearing Egyptian hieroglyphics. The discovery of these inscriptions in ancient Persia has led experts to suspect that Egyptians also were among other nationalists who contributed in building of Persepolis and other 2,500-year-old palaces. While archeologists are still waiting for the hieroglyphics to be deciphered, they said the headless statue and Elamite inscriptions clearly identify it as being of King Darius. Experts are still digging for the upper part of the six-foot statue, which is believed to be the only relic of Darius ever unearthed.

Help for Doc Adams

7-8 Channels 2-7 — Gradually Gunsmoke is introducing the character of Newly (Buck Taylor) to medicine, to take some of the load off Milburn Stone, who plays Doc Adams. Newly is in a town suffering from an illness. In the town is an escaped convict, masquerading as a priest, a saloon girl who wants better things and a man dying, saying he has no faith.

7-8 Channel 5 — Robert Goulet is the guest on Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In and he recreates the role of Lancelot which brought him fame on Broadway in "Camelot." Only here Guinevere is not Julie Andrews, but Dick Martin who is getting to be a Milton Berle, with his drag outfits. Goulet also appears as Bert Barks, who emcees a beauty contest.

7-8 Channels 9-11 — Percy Rodrigues guest stars on The Rookies as the force's first black officer and problems develop with him and Terry (George Sanford Brown). They're working on a case involving a gunman (Wayne Maunder) and a young man who witnessed a burglary.

8:30-9 Channels 2-7 — The Doris Day Show has a good-natured episode that also makes good points about an arbitrary retirement age. Henry Jones is the linotype shop foreman who has turned 65 and must quit. He's a bit torn about it and Doris convinces him he doesn't want to retire.

9-10 Channels 2-7 — The Bill Cosby Show has a patchwork quilt, made up of bits and pieces from earlier appearances of Marty Feldman and Ike and Tina Turner. These are not repeat bits, but songs and sketches taped earlier and held until now.

Anne Klein makes fashion multiple choice affair

BY SANDRA SHACKELFORD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Anne Klein, that classic, contemporary designing genius, has created three new home-sewing patterns that can be mixed and matched and multiplied into an entire wardrobe! Each pattern combines all the good taste and easy elegance that have made Anne Klein a three-time winner of the coveted Coty Award.

Anne likes details like pockets and tabs, and she knows how to soften them into non-military, polished accents. Her tab-detailed pantsuit has a top-stitched shirt jacket that's cut slimmer than most shirt jackets and has self-tie sash. The matching pants have a good, close fit through the hips and full legs. You could make the suit for office in flannel, for sport in corduroy, or in a luscious heather shetland for after-hours from Vogue Pattern 2824.

Add up Anne's three-piece blazer suit on your sewing machine! All three parts go together so well, you'll hesitate to split them up, yet they'll bring out the best of whatever else you wear with them! The shirt, ideal in crepe, surah and faille, is raglan-sleeved, cuffed and front-tabbed. It's topped by a nipped waist blazer, single breasted, pocketed and top-stitched. The third and most integral part of Vogue Pattern 2825 is the bias-shaped skirt with two front inverted pleats and slash pockets. Now imagine this suit in a lush velveteen or a crisp white pique or camel's hair with the soft shirt underneath, and you'll see how this one pattern can answer so many of your wardrobe needs.

There's a brand new variation on the pantsuit in Anne Klein's Multiple Choice collection and it's Vogue Pattern 2826. A single-breasted blouson jacket knots at the waist meeting high rise pants. These pants have tiny front pleats and slit pockets, so you don't look bulky in the tummy area, then they fall loosely into a full, straight leg.

Anne Klein's new designs really means that you can make well over nine beautifully tailored designer original outfits by adding and multiplying just three patterns. Make the special skirt Anne designed to go with the shirt jacket from the other pattern; or the nifty blazer for the high-rise pants! You can sew a whole closetful of separates for about what you would have to pay for one of her ready-made designs!

These three new patterns will appear for the first time in Vogue Patterns' March-dated catalog, on-sale in January.

Versatility

If you're sewing your way to spring, a versatile pantsuit is a natural way to go. Soft shoulders and raglan sleeves are on the road to fashion success. Vogue Pattern 2824.

Well suited

The blazer, shirt and skirt suit, at right, are well-suited for spring. Vogue Pattern 2825 not only looks like a designer original but blends sophistication with youth.

Designer builds empire

Anne Klein, a name synonymous with timeless good fashion for day and evening, has won well over 20 fashion awards. She began her professional designing career while still in her teens. After finishing high school in her native

New York, Anne received a design school scholarship. She had only attended training school for one week when she accepted a job sketching for Seventh Avenue designers free-lance.

Anne worked for two major fashion houses, Varden and Junior Sophisticates, before starting her own company. In 1968, she founded Anne Klein & Company which represented everything in fashion that Anne believes in.

"I have always been determined that my clothes would never wear the woman," Anne explains. She not only designs sportswear and evening looks, but has added furs, jewelry, belts and a new active sportswear division, Anne Klein Supersport, to her designing empire. Anne is also part owner and design director of several other fashion businesses, some of which grew from her studio. The studio members do consulting and designing in various areas of fashion and work with new designers to develop and broaden their talents. The designer is the constructive force behind this entire school of modern dressing.

A charter member of the Council of Fashion Designers of America and member of its board of directors, Anne was elected to the Coty American Fashion Critics' Hall of Fame in 1971, having previously won the Coty "Winne" and "Return Award." Shortly thereafter, she decided to share her award-winning talents with home sewers by designing patterns.

People from all over America looked at the six leading big-screen color TV's

They voted ZENITH SUPER CHROMACOLOR the best picture by more than 2 to 1!

How the test was made

The entire test was conducted by a leading independent research organization, Opinion Research Corporation, of Princeton, New Jersey.

Opinion Research purchased six new color television sets directly from retail stores. All sets were 25-inch (diagonal measurement) solid-state, full-featured models representing the six largest-selling brands in the United States.

The test was set up in the lobby of America's largest hotel, the Conrad Hilton in Chicago, to reach people from all over the country.

All six sets were masked so they couldn't be identified. Only the pictures were visible. Each picture had a number above it. Viewers were asked to vote, by number, for the best picture. At the end of each day of voting, the sets were rotated to new

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Pat Schroeder moved to the capital last week with her husband and two small children, she had no idea that serving two houses—one in Congress and one in the suburbs—would be such a hassle.

"Moving in, there are so many things to get squared away," said the freshman Democratic member of the House of Representatives from Denver. "School, furniture and carpets, draperies and curtain rods—these are the hassles most congressmen never have to cope with."

"What with trying to open an office at the same time, it's pretty busy around here," Mrs. Schroeder said in an interview. "What the two of us need desperately is a wife."

To which Jim, her husband, added: "I'm now in the role of wife. My commitments and job become secondary. It's like the husband who comes home and says, 'Dear, we've been transferred, and we have to move in a month.' I'm kind of in that role."

"I've had to resign from a lot of things: my job, chairmanships, committees. That's perfectly all right, but now I have to find a job."

Mrs. Schroeder is one of 14 women in Congress this term—and the only one with small children at home. The night after she took the oath of office, she was up until 4:30 a.m. with 2½-year-old Jamie, who had the flu. The next day she directed 6-year-old Scott to the school bus before leaving for work herself.

The Schroeders moved from a rambling three-story house in Denver where Jim Schroeder could bicycle to work to a split-level brick house in Alexandria, Va., a bedroom community across the Potomac from Washington. Boxes are piled high in the family room, still packed. A deer head lies on the floor, not yet mounted over the fireplace.

Pat Schroeder directs guests to the back door—the new carpet is too large and keeps the front door from opening. At 32, she looks more like a college coed than a professional politician.

"Campaigning can be more rigorous than the position," she said. "We thought for a long time, 'Do we really want to do this to our lives?' I thought, 'Do I really want to become Denver's professional woman?'"

The answer was yes.

So Schroeder, 36, who ran for the Colorado legislature two years ago and lost by 42 votes, pitched in and helped Pat campaign.

When she won, Schroeder gave up his partnership in a three-man law firm. "My friends kept asking what I would do if Pat won," he said. "But I'm kind of a realistic pessimist. The last politician I voted for who won was Lyndon Johnson. Until Nov. 8, I never really focused on moving."

Schroeder said he will look for a job in a law firm or on Capitol Hill. Soon he and his wife hope to have a housekeeper to mind the children.

Meanwhile, said Mrs. Schroeder, "People call and say things like, 'I have a nephew in Washington who can get Jim a job.' It's annoying. You know what you want to say to the person, but you can't."

"We're very family-oriented. We're willing to experiment with lifestyles. We have a nice solid base from which to operate at home."

Sharing housework, babysitting and careers will not be new to the Schroeders. Before her congressional campaign, Mrs. Schroeder was a field attorney for the National Labor Relations Board, taught law courses at three Colorado colleges and was a hearing officer for the state's Department of Personnel.

"I guess we learned to work together at law school," Mrs. Schroeder said, referring to courtship years in the early 60s when she and her husband were students at Harvard Law School.

Pat Scott, born in Portland, Ore., went through the University of Minnesota in three years, graduated magna cum laude and found time to earn a private pilot's license.

She and Schroeder, a Princeton graduate, were married in 1962 and have lived in Colorado eight years.

During her campaign, Mrs. Schroeder pledged to concentrate on issues affecting the environment, the elderly and small children and wants to play a role in congressional reform "because Congress is like a giant lumbering dinosaur."

She described her first day in Congress: "I am just overwhelmed by its rigamarole—how long it takes to get everything done. I get the impression that a lot of people go up to talk because they think it's important to get their name on the record."

"Many times I didn't think they added anything. I sat there and thought very analytically, 'Now what did they add to the general discussion?'"

"I had the feeling that when one side proposed something, the other side had to run opposition. It was kind of like herd bulls that stand on opposite sides ramming each other."

Ann Landers

'Odd couple' live without sex

Dear Ann Landers: Our hearts go out to those sex-starved wives who write to Ann Landers and complain about cold, indifferent, clumsy and sloppy husbands who are lousy lovers. My husband and I solved the problem 40 years ago, after five years of marriage. We decided not to have any sex. Sex is nothing more than a habit that causes children, disease, mental illness, divorce, crime and murder. Every rotten thing in this world can be traced to sex. It is also a lot of trouble and rarely worth it.

Don't tell me sex is natural. Many things in nature are repulsive, such as a cat eating a bird, etc.

I hope you will print this letter so the women in your reading audience who have sexless marriages will realize that they are actually blessed. — J. and J., Winter Park, Fla.

Dear J. and J.: How marvelous that you two kooks found each other. It would have been unfortunate if either of you had married a well-adjusted, normal person. A couple who equates children with disease, mental illness and murder is too much for me to deal with in this space. But thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: If you publish this letter it could save someone from a serious accident, or even death.

A young woman I know was driving her new car. She had her baby with her. The gas pedal stuck, she became panicky and put the car in reverse. The car spun around and crashed into a house. Fortunately, no one was at home. The baby was not hurt but the young woman was painfully injured and she is lucky to be alive.

Here's how to avoid tragedy if your gas pedal sticks! Turn off the ignition and apply the brakes. The engine will stop. — N. Name, Please

Dear N.N.: Thanks for your letter. I will repeat the key line for the benefit of speed readers. If the gas pedal sticks — don't panic. Simply turn off the ignition and apply the brakes.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the bride who had spent a fortune on a satin and lace wedding gown and was bemoaning the fact that she had invested so much money in a dress she could wear only once. Her question was, "Would it be all right to have the gown shortened, tinted another color and use it as a cocktail dress? You told her no — that it would probably look like a made-over wedding gown. Well, Ann, I have a better idea.

Twenty-two years ago I, too, spent a fortune on a wedding gown, but I got my money's worth out of it. I've worn it 21 times since I was married in it — as an anniversary gown and it still looks beautiful! What a lovely way to renew a marriage. It's like being a bride again! Give them the word, will you? It's a great idea. — Eternal Bride.

Dear Eternal: I agree, it's a great idea — but 95 per cent of the women out there who have been married over 20 years could no more get into their wedding gowns than they could walk across Lake Michigan. To those who can — my heartiest congratulations. To those who can't, save the gown for your daughter.

P.S. A word to you needle-artist husbands: Before you hand this column to the wife and ask her if she could get into her wedding gown, go try to get into your wedding pants.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 35 cents in coin to this newspaper.

Women's seminars scheduled by UWGB

Monday, Jan. 15, 1973

The Post-Crescent, Appleton-Menasha-Menasha, Wis. A-15

Three seminars for women have been planned by the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

The first, entitled, "Career Exploration and the Job Market," has been structured for women to look at themselves in relation to the job market in the greater Green Bay area. Emphasis will be on personal interests and skills, how to apply for a job, writing a resume, where the job opportunities are and flexible hours and part-time employment.

This seminar which is co-sponsored by the American Association of University Women will run on Thursdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., Feb. 15 through March 22 at the Shorewood Campus in Green Bay. It will be in the Library Learning Center, room 835, with Gloria Hedge, psychologist; Joyce Williams, community worker, and Wisconsin Employment Service personnel as leaders.

Limited to 20 women, the fee is $35.

Woman's future

"Exploring Your Future" is the title of a second seminar which will help those attending find answers to "Who Am I?" and "Where Am I Going?"

The contemporary woman is living longer, has many years left after her children are in school or leave home, is often restless and sometimes depressed. She is asking questions about how free she wants to be and about her potential.

The seminar will take a look at these factors through discussion, factual information, film and home work assignments. There will be the opportunity to take interest, personality and interpersonal behavior tests. A full hour of personal test interpretation and guidance is given each participant.

The Shorewood Campus in Green

Bay will be the site for one of these seminars. To be on Tuesdays from 9:30 through 11:30 a.m. March 6 through April 24, it will take place in room 835 of the Library Learning Center. Leader will be Marge Engelman, director of Adult Education at UWGB.

Also in Manitowoc

A second session is slated on Wednesdays April 11 through May 30 at the UW Center in Manitowoc. To be from 9:30 through 11:30 a.m., the course will be led by Marion Stern, specialist, UWGB. Fees are $35 with each session limited to 20 women.

"Reading and Study Skills" is the title of the third seminar. Because many mature women who want to return to school are afraid of how much they may have forgotten, they wonder if they can keep up with the younger student. There is evidence that the returning adult student does well. Life experiences and motivation are significant factors in learning.

This seminar gives concrete help in taking essay exams, ways to write a comprehensive paper, and study skills. There is ample opportunity available for personal help in identifying and dealing with the real fears of the returning adult student.

The seminar is scheduled on Thursdays April 12, 19 and 26 at the Shorewood Campus. To be in room 835 of the Library Learning Center, it will be led by Julie Brickley, lecturer, special learning programs, UWGB. Fee for this seminar is $10.

Women voters to discuss finance Tuesday

A regional finance workshop will be conducted by two members of the state board of the League of Women Voters of Wisconsin, Ruth Harris and Virginia Williams, from 10 a.m. through 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Holiday Inn. The event is for leagues from Appleton, Neenah-Menasha, Ripon, Door County, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Manitowoc.

Church women give card party

GREENVILLE — Christian Mothers of St. Mary Church will sponsor their first card party in a series of six from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the school hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grelson and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bekker are co-chairmen. There will be supervised games for children in the classrooms. Lunch will be served. The public is invited.

Other card parties are scheduled for Feb. 4, Feb. 25, March 11, March 25 and April 8.

Couples weekend retreat center

Talking less and enjoying it less? Feel you are alone in raising the children? Tired of the rat race of financial competition? Want to recapture the spark that seems to have gone out of your marriage?

Monte Alverno Retreat Center is planning a Couples Weekend Friday through Sunday. During this interim, those who attend will find "peace, joy and an opportunity to share as well as time to be challenged and stimulated to find more meaning in a life that perhaps has grown stale."

Interested persons may learn more about these weekends by calling or writing the center. Reservations should be made as soon as possible.
